RUSSIANS BLOCK NAZI COUNTER-ATTACK; SECOND FRONT TALK NOW AT FEVER PITCH; AXIS 'SQUEEZES' FRANCE TO GRAB FLEET

VICHY CAUGHT BY DEMANDS OF ROME, BERLIN

Italians Press For Title To Nice and Corsica; Laval Yields to Nazis.

OPENS FRENCH BASES

German Seamen to Train at Ship Stations in Unoccupied Area.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—A squeeze play by the Axis to get the French fleet or grab French territory, or both, was suggested today in parallel reports that Italy has demanded title to Nice and Corsica and that Pierre Laval has consented to the training of German seamen at French naval bases on the characteristics of French warships.

Comparison of the various reports brought out the outlines of a situation in which Germany and Italy each was using the needs of the other to seek her own ends, with the Vichy French government in the middle, forlornly trying to play off one master against the other.

The Germans were portrayed as using the Italian territorial demands as a threat to force Vichy to give up the French fleet peaceably.

The Italians were described as seeking to bolster their home front's morale by taking a slice of French territory and at the same time using this maneuver as a pretext to keep at home 300,000 Italian soldiers that the Germans would like to have offered to negotiate the Italian demands, with a disarming offer to discuss Tunisia. The Italians have wanted Tunisia since before the World war, but their new demands were reported to deal with Nice and Corsica.

Informed sources in London said that in dealing with Germany, on the other hand, Laval had consented to the training of a considerable number of German seamen at French naval yards and stations to familiarize them with French warships. Possibly less than the Germans want, this still would serve as a placatory move.

These sources said virtually all major units of the French fleet at the Toulon naval base had been drained of oil and did not

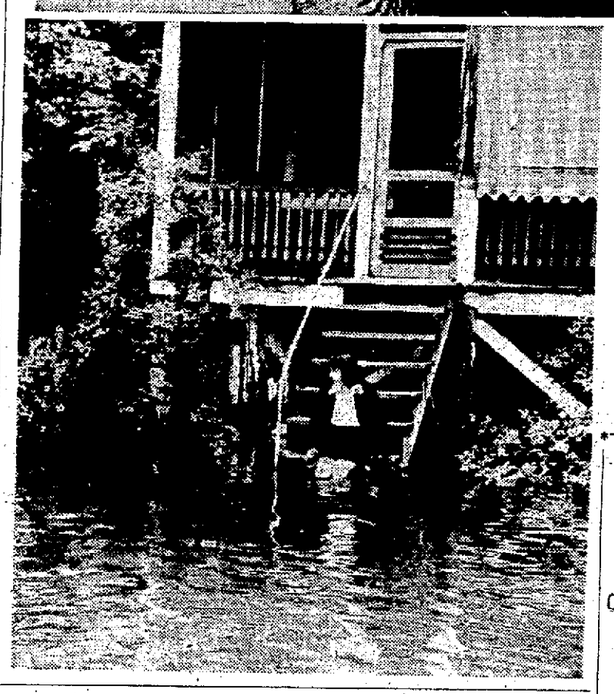
As Pennsylvania Floods Claimed 36 Lives



The death toll mounted to 36 today in eastern Pennsylvania's devastated flash flood area in which the two photos above were taken. Top: water from an overflowing Wyomissing creek flooded homes along Canal street and encircled the huge tanks of the Consumers Gas company in the southern section of Reading, Pa. This is a view looking toward Neversink mountain. Below: Dorothy McQuestion sits on the steps leading to her home dangling her feet in the flood waters which surround her house at Gladwyn, Pa. The Schuylkill river overflowed near here, washing out bridges, wrecking homes and basements of business establishments.

Victory's Theme As 4,200 Pupils Stage Colorful Drills

While 5,000 adults looked on, 4,200 Mansfield school children staged their second physical education demonstration at Stadium field last night.

Presented beneath a cloudless blue sky the colorful pageant of exercises, folk dances, games and races was highlighted by the evening's final event, "A Victory March" given by Johnny Appleseed Junior high school pupils in charge of Ellen Garner and John J. Thoms.

Equipped with jumping ropes and dressed in red, white and blue costumes, the Johnny Appleseed youngsters marched on the field and formed two large V's for victory. After presenting a series of navel rope-skipping exhibitions they formed a large American flag as the pageant closed.

The dispatch and ease with which the highly coordinated program, directed by Harry E. Mehock, city school athletic director, was run off amazed Mansfielders again this year, the whole exhibition being completed in one hour and 20 minutes, even faster than scheduled.

Even the tiny primary graders carried out their parts in the program with poise and assurance.

Presented to give Mansfielders a cross-section of the city school physical education program the

DISCUSS RULES

300 Businessmen Expected To Attend Meeting Here Tonight.

More than 300 business men from Mansfield and nearby cities are expected to attend a meeting in the Mansfield-Leland hotel at 7:30 p. m. today for discussion of the new government regulations on operation of trucks.

Allen Barr, of the Akron Motor Transport Association, will be the principal speaker. Robert C. Remy, president of the chamber of commerce, will preside.

Teachers Organize Union In City System As Part Of AFL

Formation of the Mansfield Federation of Teachers as a unit of the American Federation of Teachers, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, was announced today by John Correll, social science teacher at Johnny Appleseed Junior high school, who has been chosen as president of the new unit.

Other officers are G. V. Van Arnam, W. Brooks Huber, and Elsie Lockmyer, vice presidents; Dan Haber, executive secretary; Dorothy Moser, recording secretary; E. N. Cooper, financial secretary; and Harry Hostetler and Margaret Wheeler, sergeants at arms.

Correll declined to comment when asked whether the new union was prepared to ask recognition from the Mansfield board of education as bargaining agent for the city's teachers. Supt. W. L. Miller said no representatives of the union had consulted him on that question.

The organization, which recently obtained its charter, was to hold its first meeting late today at Johnny Appleseed.

1,000 TURN OUT TO SEE 9 LEAVE

Colored Youths Off For Army; July Draft Call Expected To Be Heaviest Yet.

Despite the fact there were only nine in the contingent—smallest number to leave Mansfield under the present selective service, approximately 1,000 turned out this morning for the 11th send-off staged by the city in two months.

The colored selectees who departed this morning for an Army induction center comprise the last contingent to leave the city under the present system of swearing in immediately the men who pass the Army's physical examinations. They boarded a Columbus-bound bus in front of the Richland Trust building.

After June 15, selectees will go to an induction center and be examined, then returned to their homes. Those rejected need not return, and those accepted will have a two-week furlough to wind up their affairs. This will avoid embarrassment for selectees honored at send-offs who are rejected and return home immediately. Future send-offs will be only for those who have been accepted and are returning to start active duty.

The three local draft boards have received very light calls for June, but exceedingly heavy calls for men in July. Ninety

19 Receive Caps, Diplomas As First Nurses' Aid Grads

Pledging themselves to serve for the duration of the war as aids to nurses in Mansfield, 19 Mansfield young women received their caps and diplomas last night at the city's first Red Cross Nurses' Aid graduation ceremonies at the Nurses' home.

Approximately 80 persons attended the exercises which denoted the completion of 80 hours of hospital training for the members of the class.

Principal speaker was L. W. Birch, Richland county Red Cross chairman, who told the graduates they "owe a deep responsibility to the city in the work you have chosen to do."

Attorney G. W. Marriott, chief air raid warden, discussed the part the Nurses' Aids will have

HIGH RANKING U.S. OFFICERS REACH LONDON

SEE VAST AIR ATTACK

Spokesmen Withhold Official Announcement as Air, Tank, Ground Leaders Meet.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(U.P.)—Britain has been assured that United States planes, ammunition and fuel are in readiness for a huge American air expeditionary force which will join the RAF's offensive against the continent, it was understood today.

(By International News Service)

LONDON — Excitement over the possibility of a "second front" rose to fever pitch today with the arrival in London of high ranking United States air, tank and ground force commanders.

Heading the American delegation were Lieut. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, commander of the army air forces; Rear Admiral John H. Towers, chief of the navy bureau of aeronautics; Maj. Gen. Mark W. Clark, chief of staff of the army ground forces; and Maj. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, chief of the operations division of the war department.

Clark is an infantry specialist, Eisenhower a tank expert.

While no official announcement was made beyond the terse statement that the American generals had arrived in London, recent statements by British leaders regarding joint American-British action against Germany were recalled.

All London newspapers devoted headlines to arrival of the visitors, relegating news of the Russian front to second place.

The Evening News predicted a "joint offensive against Germany."

It was expected that Gen. Arnold's visit would be of brief duration and that he would concentrate on laying groundwork for close cooperation between American air forces and the RAF.

It was pointed out that weather conditions and combat technique in Europe are radically different from what American airmen get at home. For this reason it was considered almost certain that Gen. Arnold will visit the several

GIRL, 9, STRUCK

Hit By Automobile In Front of School; Arm Fractured.

Patsy Moore, 9-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Moore, 679 Arlington avenue, suffered a fractured right arm last night when struck by an automobile on Marion avenue in front of Brinkerhoff school.

Mrs. Dale Swingler, 20, of 151 West Third street, driver of the car, told police the girl had run from behind a parked car into the street.

The Moore girl was stopping off at Brinkerhoff school on her way to the physical education demonstration at the high school.

HORSES GO UP

Steeds Bring Average of $35 more at Public Auction.

CHICAGO —(AP)— For the first time in years, horse dealers and liverymen were outnumbered in bidding at the year's first public auction of saddle horses by city farmers, suburbanites and others with an eye on the tire shortage.

One hundred horses were sold at an average of $165, an increase of $35 over last year's average price.

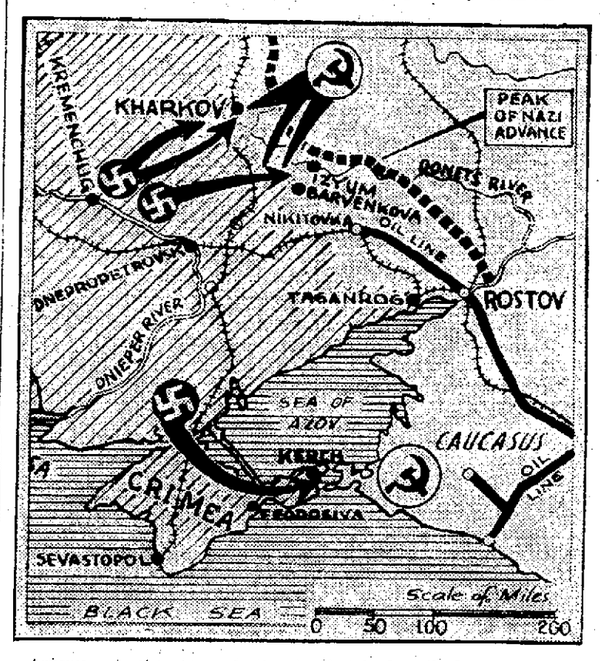
HITLER'S PRICE

Auctioneer Says Guy's Not Worth Dime Alive; Dummy Brings $3.50.

CINCINNATI—(AP)—"This guy isn't worth ten cents living, but I'll give him to you dead for four bucks," said an auctioneer in selling a dummy of Adolf Hitler.

Appropriately ensconced in a coffin and wearing a black shroud, the dummy was part of furnishings of a night club being sold. Hitler brought $3.50 under the hammer.

Where Soviets Block Nazis



Arrows at the top of the above map indicate where the armies of Marshall Semeon Timoshenko's have dug in on a 155 mile front and blocked heavy German counter-attacks with a wall of troops and guns. The Germans hurled tanks and infantry against the Russian lines in the Kharkov area in what is described as the bloodiest battle of history. Russians claimed to be holding ground they have gained in the 15-day old battle of the Ukraine. On the Kerch peninsula, indicated by the lower arrow, Moscow has admitted the Nazis have driven through to the strait facing the oil rich Caucasus.

Chinese Suffer Heavy Blows In Jap Drives

Enemy Nears Chekiang Capital; British Complete Withdrawal From Burma; New Jap Thrust On Fukien Feared.

(By Associated Press)

China's grim battle to stave off Japanese conquest of Chekiang province on the China east coast, springboard for a potential Allied offensive against Japan, suffered new reverses today while far to the west the last British defenders of Burma were reported to have withdrawn into India.

Chinese headquarters acknowledged that Japanese troops, estimated at 100,000, had advanced within two miles of the ancient walled city of Kinhwa, the Chekiang provisional capital.

Chinese dispatches said the Japanese assault on Kinhwa had been thrown back with heavy casualties, but acknowledged that "the situation is still very grave and the coming week will witness even fiercer battles."

Once again, a Chinese spokesman indicated that Japanese aerial superiority was playing havoc with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's armies, declaring that "the enemy is continually bombing us in relays."

Domei, the Japanese news agency, said Japanese troops had broken through Chinese pillbox defenses about a mile north and northwest of Kinhwa and were now at the outskirts of the city.

Domei asserted all retreat had been cut off, that remnants of three Chinese divisions had been crushed east of Kinhwa, and that other Chinese troops attempting to flee were destroyed six miles south of the city.

The news agency said all bridges, roads and the railroad west of Kinhwa had been destroyed by the Chinese.

Chinese dispatches said the enemy was preparing another campaign, perhaps even bigger

BLAST KILLS 2

Explosion Rips War Plant at Lansing, Michigan.

LANSING, Mich. —(INS)— Two war workers were killed today and a third was reported near death after an explosion tore through and set afire a building of the Fisher Body corporation plant.

Killed were Wallace S. Irish, 45, of Grand Ledge, and Roy H. Anderson, 29, of Lansing. Kenneth Zentmyer, 31, of Eaton Rapids, was injured internally.

Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, state police representatives and city authorities began an investigation.

It could not be determined immediately how many were at work at the time of the blast, around 8:30 a. m. The explosion, heard for several blocks, shattered one wall of the building and rocked other nearby buildings.

While firemen from four engine companies reported the flames "under control," they said the heat was so intense it barred them from entering the building.

Seized In Theft Of $450 As He Boards Bus For San Diego

Taken into custody at 1 a. m. today as he was ready to board a bus for San Diego, Calif., a 16-year-old Mansfield youth was held today by Sheriff Frank E. Robinson in connection with the theft of $450 from a relative's home on the Ashland road.

Prosecutor Harold T. Lutz said the youth had $342 in cash and a bus ticket to San Diego in his pockets. He told the prosecutor he planned to enlist in the navy when he reached California.

Meanwhile, county officers and Mansfield police were investigating four other break-ins last night in the city area. Only a small amount of loot was obtained by the burglars.

Sheriff Robinson and Deputy Sheriff J. R. Hetler went to the Greyhound bus station on a tip from Melvin Tucker, Ashland road, who reported the money missing from his home when members of the family returned at 6:30 p. m. yesterday.

The youth taken into custody by the sheriff is a relative of Tucker's. There was no one at the Tucker home yesterday afternoon when the home was entered by forcing open the back door, authorities said.

The prosecutor quoted the youth as saying that he went to a movie last night and purchased a pint of ice cream before going to the bus station to buy his

SOVIET ARMY HALTS GERMAN TANKS, TROOPS

Enemy Smashes Against Wall of Might In Furious Kharkov Battle.

LOSSES 'ENORMOUS'

Moscow Claims Superiority In Air as Forces Try To Hold Gains.

(By United Press)

MOSCOW — The Russian army organ Red Star said today that waves of attacking German troops and tanks were being "smashed by an iron wall of our troops" entrenched in captured positions around Kharkov, with the hardest fighting on a 25-mile front south of the city.

Heavy enemy losses were described by the Red Star, which said that the Nazis "cling tooth and nail to every inch of ground, unsparing any lives or material in their efforts to hold on to strategically important villages."

In the Izyum-Barvenkovo sector, 70 miles south of Kharkov, the enemy, reinforced by reserves from other Axis armies, were said to be hurling large forces and as many as 150 tanks at a time against the Russian lines, only to be halted with enormous losses.

Official advices indicated that Marshal Semyon Timoshenko's forces were battling German counter-attacks almost everywhere along the 155-mile Kharkov front, where one of the fiercest tank battles of history entered its third week today.

"The enemy, attempting to check the momentum of our troops, is throwing in huge forces of infantry, tanks and aircraft," said the Red Star. "But the enemy counter-attacks are being smashed against an iron wall of our troops strongly entrenched in reconquered positions."

The army organ added that Timoshenko's forces were cracking the Germans' "bestial jaws and inflicting enormous losses upon him."

Today's noon communique of the Soviet high command said that around the city of Kharkov Timoshenko was "consolidating his positions" and that southward,

Report Several Subs Attacked In Battle Off Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil—(AP)—A high source said today that it was understood that more than one submarine was attacked in the battle near Fortaleza on Brazil's northeast coast three days ago in which one submarine "supposedly German" was sunk by several United States planes.

The anti-submarine attacks by United States forces were part of a great activity off Brazil's northeast coast, including an assault on another Brazilian merchantman by a submarine and the expected arrival of survivors from an unidentified vessel.

As a result, Brazil increased her defense preparations.

Authoritative sources at Fortaleza said the sinking of the submarine was confirmed by the

FACES CHARGE IN ASHLAND TRAFFIC DEATH

Michigan Man Accused of Manslaughter By Widow of Victim.

ASHLAND—Charges of manslaughter were filed here yesterday by Mrs. Grace Straub, widow of Austin L. Straub, against A. L. Walters of Adrian, Mich.

Walters, Sheriff Dale Hammond said, was the driver of the car which struck and fatally injured Straub, flagman for the state highway department, on Route 250 Sunday.

Walters pleaded innocent to the charge in the court of Justice of the Peace J. H. Armstrong and was bound over to the grand jury under $500 bond.

Walters, who is 74, was brought to Ashland Monday by his brother, L. W. Walters of Canton, and after furnishing bond proceeded to his home in Adrian with his brother. He was held here for several hours Sunday following the accident and then was exonerated of blame and released by Prosecutor A. Ross Siverling Straub's death was the 11th traffic fatality in Ashland county this year. Last year there were nine during the entire year.

Straub was struck and run over by Walters' car as the highway employe attempted to flag the car to a stop at a highway repair zone east of Ashland. The sheriff said the car skidded on the wet pavement and went out of control before striking the man.

Ashland Woman Asks $15,000 Damages From Physician.

ASHLAND—Alleging negligence in the care of a fractured arm, Della Wolf of Ashland has brought suit against Dr. George Riebel, for $15,000 damages. The suit filed yesterday in Ashland common pleas court was accompanied by a suit brought against Dr. Riebel for $2,500 by Mrs. Wolf's husband, Miles V. Wolf.

Mrs. Wolf charges in her petition that on May 1, 1941, she employed the physician to set the bone which had been fractured in her right arm above the elbow and that the defendant was "negligent and unskillful in setting the bone and in attempting to reduce said fracture" and that as a result it has caused permanent and almost complete disuse of her right arm and right hand.

Wolf asks $2,500 for medical, hospital, nursing and housekeeping services incurred and for additional and further expenses of this kind to be incurred and for damages for being "deprived of his wife's ful companionship, society, fellowship and services."

ASHLAND — Contract for a sewage disposal plant at the Ashland County home was let yesterday by Ashland county commissioners to the Ashland Concrete company. The bid of the concrete company, which is owned by Ralph Tinsley of Ashland, was $2,850, the lowest of only two which were submitted.

The commissioners also authorized the repair of two bridges in Lake township: 90-11 at an estimated cost of $480, and 90-8 at an estimated cost of $286.49.

NAME FOUR TO 'BOYS STATE'

Juniors at Shelby High Are Selected To Attend Annual Meet.

SHELBY—Four junior students today were named to represent this community at the annual "Boys State" to be held June 13-23 at Delaware, Principal O. H. Schaaf of the high school revealed today.

They are Harry Crawford, James Hohler, William Emich and Paul Robinson. Robert Schiffer was named alternate.

The selection was made by a vote of the faculty members of the school. To be eligible, the student had to be a junior, have good grades, show a preference for speech or civics, be good school citizens and be interested in the "Boys State" program.

Sponsors for the Shelby group are the American Legion, Ad, Rotary and Shelby Better Business clubs.

WINS VERDICT

ASHLAND—A verdict of $100 was returned by a jury in Ashland county common pleas court Monday afternoon in favor of D. T. Austen in his suit against Mrs. Melvin Lewis. Austen sought damages of $300 from an accident on route 250, east of Ashland when his car struck a pony on the road. Ten jurors consurred on the verdict.

U. S. 'FREEZES' TWO ADDITIONAL CITY PROJECTS

Drilling of New Water Well, Equipment Purchases Face Priorities Snag.

Two more municipal projects, both dealing with the provision of an emergency water supply for Mansfield, were reported as "frozen" today because of governmental priority restrictions. These were the fifth and sixth major city projects affected by war time restrictions on the use of critical metals and machinery.

Councilman C. N. Shultz, chairman of city council's water committee, said that the city had been unsuccessful in its attempts to obtain the equipment needed to drill a new well for the city's water supply and that priority restrictions also prevented the purchase of an auxiliary motor to operate pumps at the Maxwell Springs pumping station.

Councilman Shultz made the announcement after learning that the city's plan to build two new eight-inch water lines in the industrial section of the city had hit a snag when the government refused to approve the city's request to purchase 3,024 feet of water-pipe needed for them.

"That just knocks the pieces out of our water program for 1942," said Shultz. "We had hoped to carry out three major improvements this year but priorities have stopped them all."

Shultz said that a new well had been planned to be used to augment the city's water supply and that the new engine pump was to have been installed to be used in case of emergencies.

The chairman of the water committee said that the city had been unable to obtain the metal casing used in the drilling of a well or the cast-iron pipe needed to connect the well with the pumping station. Priority restrictions have also been placed on the sale of electric motors.

Service-Safety Director Fred B. Wolff received word from the government yesterday that the city would be unable to get the cast-iron pipe needed to construct new water lines on Park avenue east and Newman street to give more water to the Art Rattan company, the Humphryes Manufacturing and the Westinghouse plant.

NAMED TO FILL HEALTH POST

R. O. Scott To Become County Sanitarian; Commissioner Appoints Others.

Dr. William B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, said today that Ray O. Scott, 464 Sloane avenue, had been appointed to fill the newly-created post of county sanitarian.

Scott, a former employe of the Page Dairy, will handle part of the duties formerly carried out by Douglas Griffin, sanitary engineer, who recently accepted an appointment as district sanitary advisor.

Scott's appointment brings to four the number of sanitarians employed by the city and county health departments. Fred Haag is plumbing inspector while Samuel H. Young acts as dairy inspector. James L. Kuneman is sanitarian for the city.

Also appointed for work with the health department was Mrs. Susan Rust, who assumed her duties as a clerk. Mrs. Mary Wilkinson, a nurse with the Mansfield Visiting Nurses association, will start work with the city health department on June 1. She succeeds Rachel Mitchell, who has accepted a similar post with the health department in Wayne county.

Calls Hitler's Humiliation of France Blunder

PORTLAND, Ore.—(INS)—Adolf Hitler's determination to humiliate France was one of several great blunders that may cause his downfall, in the opinion of Roland Elliott, executive secretary of the Intercollegiate Young Men's Christian Association.

Europeans believe that the German general staff wished to treat France honorably after its defeat but Hitler insisted on humiliation, Elliott said after a tour of France and several neutral European nations. This course, he believes, explains why Germany cannot obtain collaboration from the French rank and file.

Elliott ranked the German attack on Russia as another great blunder. He said the campaign was undertaken against the advice of army leaders, who were aware of Russian strength.

FOUL PLAY FEARED

MARTINS FERRY—(INS)—Foul play was suspected in the death of Capt. William E. Dunaway, 65, formerly in charge of the American Rolling Mill company's harbor boat at Huntington, W. Va., whose body was found in the Ohio river near Pittsburgh.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, MAY 26, 1942

A 5-4 supreme court decision doesn't tend to dispel the idea that there are two sides to every question.

What with one thing and another, the coming and going of Straw Hat day seems to have been quite generally overlooked.

Earl Browder seems to be taking time to look things over before deciding on just what contribution he will make to national unity.

Senator Connally Joins Predicters

NOW it is Senator Tom Connally, of Texas, who confidently predicts victory for the United Nations in 1943 —following close after President Roosevelt's warning against over-optimism and expression of belief that this will be a "long, hard war."

Lest too much faith be placed in Senator Connally's prediction, it may be well to point out that the Texas solon is not likely to be in better position to know how long the war will last than any of his associates in congress, or than any other intelligent Texan, for that matter.

Whether the war will end in victory for the United Nations this year, next year, or within the next five years, has not yet been determined—so the time of ending cannot be known to anyone.

All that can be known now is that the United Nations WILL EVENTUALLY WIN!

Granting the right of Senator Connally to hold any opinion on the subject that he may choose, and to say what he thinks, it may be mentioned, however, that he has done the very thing that Americans have been warned against —spreading an idea that the war is nearing an end when the situation in Europe, in the Far East and in the Atlantic ocean offers little encouragement to such optimism.

It is unfortunate that the high position of Senator Connally gives his prediction an unwarranted appearance of authority. His forecast is unjustified by military accomplishments thus far. What is needed now is an all-out war effort and movement TOWARD victory — not predictions by senators, congressmen, or anybody else.

New Cars for Eligible Buyers

UNEXPECTEDLY slow movement of new automobiles into the hands of eligible purchasers is providing a complicated problem for government rationing authorities, dealers and potential purchasers of used cars.

Despite loosening of restrictions against purchase of new cars, in order to cut heavy carrying charges on stocks held by dealers, the demand for new cars has not yet come up to expectations and there has been a steady dwindling of used cars, one of which customarily is made available for each new car sold.

Various causes have tended to discourage car purchases, principal among which are uncertainty as to the tire situation and prospective rationing of gasoline throughout the country. Also in the minds of some has been the thought that it might be considered unpatriotic to buy a new car, even if eligible to do so.

It is also noted that persons eligible for new cars are deemed to be in essential services, which will also entitle them to purchase tires when needed, and sufficient gasoline to assure necessary transportation.

On the subject of patriotism, Price Administrator Leon Henderson recently said: "To such people (eligible persons who need to replace their cars) I would like to say that there is nothing unpatriotic about replacing a car which is used to perform essential services and which would have to be replaced next year or the year after."

Automobile dealers, with new cars available for eligible buyers, point out that the purchase of a new car is likely to free a non-rationed used auto for someone not entitled to buy a new car, thus helping to spread transportation facilities during the war emergency.

Dealers are also giving special attention to the quality of tires with which used cars are equipped when sold, in the hope that, with proper care, these will give satisfactory service until the present tire shortage has been overcome.

Planning the Holiday Week-End

WHEN a holiday comes on a Saturday, as do Memorial and Independence days this year, Americans long look forward to the week-end of fun and travel, talk about adventure and pleasure long afterward. But it is a sober America which looks toward Memorial day this year.

There will be rest and fun and family gatherings, all of which is right and pleasant. But all Americans are in the army now. The civilians march with their men in spirit and in deed. "Freedom" is the password, and "Liberty for All" is the countersign. There is strength and determination in the handclasp and work is the order of the day.

Memorial day, 1942, will be long remembered by the American people. On it they will resolve to stand united, to remain strong, to push on to the end, which is victory.

Passing of a Great Showman

MORRIS GEST'S death removes a remarkable showman from the theatrical field. As a producer of large-scale colorful spectacles, he had few if any equals. "Chu Chin Chow," "Mecca" and "Aphrodite" reproduced in memorable fashion the picturesque glories of China, Arabia and Graeco-Roman Egypt. Greater than any, and the one which will be longest remembered, was "The Miracle," a splendid rendering in pantomime of a medieval legend.

"The Miracle" assured Gest's fame. It also bankrupted him. From such magnificent displays as those mentioned he was reduced to operating a midget show at the New York world's fair. But, as all theatrical men know, up may go down and down may easily go up. He took his ill fortune philosophically and awaited the future.

With all these achievements he never forgot his humble beginnings. To the Boston public library in 1925 he gave the gross receipts of a performance of "The Miracle," amounting to over $2,600. This testified to his gratitude for the educational opportunities the library had afforded him as a boy. All that he knew he attributed to library books. This gift was his recognition of his debt; it has appropriately been devoted to the purchase of books on the stage.

Quoting Mrs. May Murphy, of New York City, who has a husband and two sons in the army and who is now joining up as a nurse: "A person can't sit around doing nothing when [illegible] got your health and there's a job to do."

Peace Schemers Crowd Capital

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

NOW to gather up a few loose ends of wartime news, swishing around in Washington. It isn't all strictly local to our own capital, but it heads in here from a good many different points of the compass. Some of it's more or less trifling and yet, collectively considered, it has a good bit of significance.

One item positively IS local. St. Elizabeth's hospital, in the city's outskirts, is the central bughouse in this region. Dr. Jay L. Hoffman, of its staff of mental specialists, reports to the American Psychopathological association that the institution's simply swamped with nuttiness cases, concentrating in the District of Columbia from every direction. They're folk with peace schemes or with plans for post-war readjustment—a better world and all that kind of stuff. Most of 'em streak it directly for the White House, where they're well-meaning, but a lot of 'em are so obstreperous that restraint's unavoidable for 'em. St. Elizabeth's has to take care of 'em until they can be redistributed. Back home, maybe a fair proportion of them return to normalcy.

A sizable party of Axis diplomats and newspapermen here, previously interned in the United States, was exchanged in neutral Lisbon the other day, for a similar party of Americans, caught and interned in Germany and Italy.

Hopeful Signs.

In Lisbon our newspapermen were able, for the first time in months, to file dispatches to the U. S. A. They were encouraging. They reported the Germans and Italians as well fed-up with the war, and the summary obviously jazzed our spirits up materially, as indicated, not only by newspaper stuff, but also by our latest joint Army and Navy report. Hitherto we've been warned repeatedly against anticipating too early an end to the pending conflict. This latest dope referred quite hopefully to the possibility of a United Nations victory by the end of the current year.

Winston Churchill's English tone of voice was ditto.

One of the news correspondents we recovered, by exchange, was Louis P. Lochner. Louis, an American citizen, born here, was of German, though Americanly naturalized parentage. German was his childhood's household language. He told me all this when I was a correspondent with the Ford peace expedition and he was Henry's secretary. Since then he's spent 20 years in Berlin. When HE says that Herr Hitler's on the slide, I believe him.

Another authority I'd gamble on is Clarke H. Kawakami. Clarke wasn't exchanged at Lisbon. He was caught in this country, as American corrsepondent of Domei, the Jap news agency, directly after the Pearl Harbor raid.

His father was K. K. Kawakami, a 100 per cent Jap, whom I knew years ago. His wife was an American, though, and Clarke was born here. I'm acquainted with him, and if that boy isn't a true-blue Yankee I'm a Hottentot. The last I knew about him officially, he was trying to break into the U. S. army, and they wouldn't admit him, because of his name complexion and 50 per cent of his ancestry. Now, though, he's cracked into print, as a war commentator —and I'm no judge if he isn't anti-Axes. Moreover, he's enlightening, from the standpoint of Jap psychology.

Listen World!

Thank You!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

I WANT to thank you. I wish I could put new fire in those old words, new tenderness and loveliness, but I can only say, as many a grateful soul has said before me, "I want to thank you."

I want to thank you for the love you've sent me and the faith you've given me. I needed it, plenty. You can't ever know how much your letters meant.

It's one thing to be sick at 18; it's quote another to be sick at 58. That seems a simple fact but I had needed to learn it. I have always been so big and strong, so filled with sunshine and storm, that I am afraid I did not understand helplessness. I have always been able to dash out into the kitchen and stir up the makings of a grand feed or speed through the night toward a story that would shake the nation. I had not known helplessness. I did not know what it meant to lie four months in a bed with only my thoughts for company. But now I know.

Now I know how it seems to have lost your place in life . . . how it seems to be a useless weight on those you love.

Now I know how it seems to come to that place where you cry, "Let this cup pass!"

I'm not good at being sick. I don't resign myself easily, bearing my burdens patiently. I want to get up and lick the dickens out of something. But there I was, unable even to move my hand.

And your letters came. Your letters telling me that you needed me, that you believed in me.

And the fire went out of me and peace came instead.

I feel clumsy in writing all this. I have always lived such an up-and-attem life, working at the coarsest and hardest labor. It seems strange now to write humbly, and yet at last I am humble.

I am humble to you who gave me the faith to go on. I still can't use my typewriter very well, my hands and feet don't click with the old tempo.

But behind their helplessness I feel your love holding me up. I feel your faith leading me on. I guess I've been pretty snooty in the past. But I'm so grateful now.

Thank you—thank you all!

Britain Looks Ahead.

The traditional gift of the people of Britain for making the best of all situations is evidenced in an article by Lord Latham in a magazine called The Listener. He says that people who visit London are curious to see evidence of bomb damage, but often they are disappointed. A great many of the bombed sites have been tidily cleared up.

The debris has been sorted and put to use. Bricks have gone into construction of war factories. Many have been used to make water basins. Thousands of tons of iron and steel have gone into munitions. And that which can classify only as rubble has been dumped on Hackney Marsh. "Thus the Battle of London has helped to win a new playfield for future generations of Londoners."—Detroit News.

TODAY IN HISTORY

May 26, 1790, marks the date of the organization of the territory of Tennessee. Six years later it became the 16th state of the union with Knoxville as its capital. Tennessee claims to have at least three of the nation's outstanding wonders — Reelfoot Lake, Lookout Mountain and a good part of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park. Nashville has been its capital since 1826.

Washington's War Optimism Is Tempered By Realistic Thinking

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Behind-the-scenes, there is a genuinely optimistic feeling about the war picture. A lot of the old discouragement of Pearl Harbor-Singapore-Java days, then very pronounced backstage, has now evaporated.

Production is proving an industrial miracle. More tanks were produced last month than during all of the last war. Plane production is now over 3,300 monthly. The army is becoming better equipped and better trained every day.

However, coupled with this optimism is some very realistic thinking which, while it can't be labelled discouraging, nevertheless gives definite cause for pause before shouting any victory hurrahs.

This realistic thinking is concerned with the great difficulty of creating a second front against Hitler in Europe. Here are some of the cold, inescapable facts we are up against.

First, it is estimated that Hitler has an army of around 4,000,000. Russia has 6,000,000 men, but they are not so well trained and equipped as the Germans. Yet Hitler, despite the power of his army, has been extremely careful not to get involved on two fronts at once. He has picked each objective coldly, carefully, and knocked it out separately.

Even the Russians, with their tremendous army, shy away from the idea of having another front created against them in Siberia.

Three U. S. Fronts.

YET, the United States with a total army of around 3,000,000 men, and with most of these still in the United States, must think of three fronts — Australia, the Middle East, and the prospective front in Europe.

Of course, American troops for the European front still are only a token force. Actually England has enough men under arms to constitute an invading army. But the main problem facing both England and the United States is ships.

Nazi announcements of ship sinkings show that they have a pretty good idea of U. S.-British ship tonnage, so it can be no secret that we lack not only the ships to keep a big army supplied with munitions, but might find it very difficult to take an invading force across the channel in the first place, and keep it supplied in the second place.

Third is the problem of landing on the European continent at all. During the two years that the Nazis have held the coast of France, Holland and Belgium, they have not been idle. They have taken all the French guns out of the Maginot Line and studded the coast with them. This shore is probably better fortified than the British coast—and Hitler was not able to invade England.

Therefore, the surest means of pounding Hitler in Europe continues to be from the air. And this undoubtedly will be the chief U. S.-British strategy. But despite the almost super-human obstacles, it is still considered absolutely necessary, somehow or other, to get a land force on the Continent to set up a second front against Hitler. And the age of miracles is not over.

Offended Bootlegger.

COURT ASHER, whose isolationist weekly, "X-Ray," was banned from the mails, admitted at the post office department hearing that he was an ex-Ku Kluxer and had been convicted for violating state and federal liquor laws.

But the brawny Indianan indignantly denied that he had been a "petty bootlegger."

"Why," he protested angrily, "I never sold less than a case of liquor in my life. It's an outrage calling me a petty bootlegger."

Do-As-Done-By Dep't.

ONE stumbling block to entering the navy is defective eyesight. And out in Detroit two optometrists, Drs. John Ross and L. E. Rehner, have been giving their services at nights to youngsters from the University of Michigan who have passed all their navy tests—except for their eyes.

The remedy prescribed by Drs. Ross and Rehner is very simple —also very similar to that prescribed by the navy—chiefly eye-exercise, plus plenty of carrot juice.

The exercise includes moving the eyes sidewise, then up and down, then diagonally for fifteen minutes in the morning and fifteen minutes at night. After this, the navy prescribes massaging the closed eyes with a large sewing thimble for five minutes.

Drs. Ross and Rehner also advise using the eyes outdoors to look around as much as possible without turning the head. What the eyes need, they say is plenty of muscular exercise, for eyes are like leg muscles, arms or anything else.

The two doctors paid tribute to the eagerness of hundreds of young men to get into the service, and so these scentists are working nights to do their part to help them.

Man About Manhattan

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

NEW YORK—Back in the prohibition days if anybody asked you if you'd have some corn you said "Thank you," and passed your glass. That's one kind of corn. Then there's kind of corn that grows in Iowa and makes the little pigs fat. That's another kind of corn. But on Broadway we have an entirely different kind of corn. Sometimes it's spelled korn. If it's just ordinary corn, meaning lousy, it's no good. But if it's real korn, if it's so corny it hurts, brother, that korn.

That's why I want you to meet the Korn Kobblers. Are they corny? Yes, brother. Their idea of a sweet zephyr is a curdled cow horn of the 1890 variety. They have warts on their fingers from playing tunes on washboards. I think one of them owns a dinner jacket but he has never had it on. They wear just what they happen to put on when they get up in the morning. And they make money. They just finished one transcription series that paid them $26,000. This dough was whacked up six ways, because there are six Kobblers, and they are a co-operative outfit. They share everything from piccolo reeds to underwear.

LAST year the Kobblers opened a "two-weeks" engagement at the Flagship, a Jersey night spot, and stayed eleven months. They are back there again. They have a prize collection of 26 automobile horns, one stolen from a Paris hack. These horns go back to 1900. Do these horns sound sweet to the Kobblers? Yes, brother. When they crack loose with these out-moded relics of a forgotten civilization, tears come to their eyes. Long ago they learned that you didn't have to operate a still to make corn pay.

THERE'S Nels Laakso, trumpet player, married, who comes from Wakefield, Mich. . . . There's Stan Fritts, trombonist, of Lyons, Neb. Stan is a registered barber. He has a child and wears horn-rim specs, but only as a part of the act...Harry Turen, also of Nebraska, was once a printer's devil....He plays clarinet and sax ....Chief Mac Elroy, the drummer, looks more like a priest or a school teacher than a Kobbler. He used to play in a burlesque theater pit-band, and he still cracks the gags he learned from the tramp comedians....Marty Gold, the only New Yorker in the outfit, gave them their name—the Korn Kobblers. He is the band's arranger. He is a composer....Charles Koenig, the bass player, is the only bachelor in the group.

Of course, beneath the corn shucks, the skunk-skin drums, and the tub-thumping, these boys are musicians. They could play with any outfit.

But they don't want to play with any outfit. They want the corn. They like the corn. They're out in the corn, where it's really tall. And when it comes to peddling corn, the real korn, they've got it. That's all, brother.

A Farmer's Diary

Healing Earth

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

WHEN I lived among the Pennsylvania mountains, I went, once, with a neighbor and his family to pick huckleberries along a southern ridge. The neighbor had two children, a boy of 12 and a baby less than one year old—also a wire-haired, nonedescript dog that answered to the name of Pepper.

We parked in a level spot, just off the beaten track where the grassy floor was black beneath the roots of bluegrass. This level space, perhaps 30 feet in diameter, was used almost a century ago for burning charcoal from wood cut near by.

It was a warm afternoon and the mother took the little one's collapsible crib out of the car and tied it securely between two small trees, where it might swing, if any breeze should blow. The bottom, as it moved, bent low the grass with each sweep. Then she called the dog and bade him watch the baby. Meekly the shy pup turned about three times, and snuggled down, almost completely buried in the grass.

Then, feeling quite secure, we four walked southward up the slope, each with a large split basket in his hands. Soon we found an area richly purple with huckleberries, and for a few moments lost track of time, as we concentrated on filling our baskets.

Presently Pepper gave a quick sharp penetrating bark — we thought we heard the baby laugh. Pepper growled, then came scuffling and mouthing yelps. Dropping our baskets, we hurried down.

Somehow the baby had clambered out of his crib and was crawling about on all fours. The dog was close by, but crying piteously, with quivering body. He came toward us and lifted a rapidly swelling face, where two cuts showed on the upper portion of the nose. Only two feet from one end of the swinging crib, lay the mangled body of a diamond-back rattlesnake. Its tail still quivered.

I helped to fasten the crib back in the car. The nervous father tried to quiet the fretting child. Before its mother came upon the scene the baby was safe in the car again. We loaded in the half-filled baskets and called Pepper. No answer. The dog had disappeared.

Sorrowfully we left the spot, hopefully assuring each other that the dog knew the way home. But he did not come that night, and next day I helped search for him. We found him, finally, in a calamus swamp, alive, but feeble, with his wounded nose sunk deep into the muck. When I called, he came toward me a few steps, then turned back with eyes that showed deep suffering, and resumed his place with his wounded mouth and nose thrust into the narrow hole he had made for it. It was as if he said, "Let me be. The good moist earth feels cool and it will heal me." It was so. Wise instinct saved his dog life.

What made me remember Pepper now? Well, just recently I read—in Colliers I believe—where scientific experiments have revealed how earth may be conditioned for medicinal use, since all diseases die or are changed when germs return again to the soil. Proud, blundering man may presently understand and use what animals know instinctively.

Murder On the Avenue

By Carolyn Wells

(Copyright, 1942.)

CHAPTER XIX

Clarence Bliss was in his partner's private office. He was wondering whether he could take care of Herrick's unfinished business without blunders. Papers were neatly docketed and carefully arranged; Miss Ripley could tell him much about them, but there were knotty points.

Fleming Stone, going in at the noon hour, found Bliss in a despairing mood.

"Did you know that a letter you gave me this morning to give to Herrick was from Michigan?" Stone asked.

"Yes. Is his old uncle dead? There was no black edge, but the thing had a legal look."

"It was from a lawyer. Jason Webb is dead. There are complications."

"There would be!" Bliss scowled. "Complications are what I have got too many of. But sit down, Mr. Stone, and tell me all about the passing of Jason Webb. How does it affect Brand?"

Fleming Stone read the eccentric will.

"That all?" Bliss said as Stone finished.

"That's all. Now, Mr. Bliss, what are we going to do about it?"

"Somebody's got to go to Ebbitt's Corners. As Brand is not —er—footloose at present, it looks as if I should have to go."

"You're a quicker thinker, sir. And I think you have come to the right conclusion. And about this office?"

"Mr. Stone, this office will have to be closed. It need not mean dissolution of the firm of Herrick and Bliss, but our business must be discontinued — I hope, temporarily."

"Can you manage your disgruntled clients"

"They won't all be disgruntled. Many will be not only decent about it all, but anxious to help. The rambunctious ones will have to be dealt with. Miss Ripley can help a lot. She is a most capable woman, with unlimited tact. Anyway, Brand must be thought of first. Don't you see trouble ahead, unless we act quickly? To be sure, we have three months to work in, but we are at the disadvantage of distance from the seat of war. For it's going to be war. The village of Ebbitt's Corners has long been hoping for a bequest from Jason Webb's will. Now, they can get it only if Brand Herrick can't fulfill the absurd conditions laid down for him."

"But can he fulfill them?"

"With your detective ability and my legal knowledge don't you think we can hope for success?"

"If you go to Michigan and cope from there, and I stay here and cope, surely we must accomplish something. I told Herrick you and I would see him tonight. Then you and he can settle about closing this office. Right?"

"Right. But when I think of Brand, under this new load of trouble—"

"Do what you can with the imperative cases, arrange with other lawyers to take over some, notify your influential clients, and get Miss Ripley on her way. I hope to get Herrick out of that place. But the only way is to discover who really did do the murder, and that will take my time and attention. Brand will have to have a lawyer, too. With your investigations you can't take care of that, and you might not be allowed to."

"I know. Don't you think Chadwick would look after him?"

"Chadwick is McCleod's lawyer."

"I can't see how that matters. There won't be so much to do for Brand, and I fancy there's not much to keep Chadwick busy with McCleod's affairs."

"I'd be glad to have Chadwick on the job. I'll ask him today. You know he has a personal interest in Herrick."

"Yes, I know. And he knows Ebbitt's Corners, and all!"

"I'll see him then. So long, Bliss, you have my sympathy."

"I know, Mr. Stone. See you tonight then."

He was not a weakling, but he was unaccustomed to responsibilities, and the thought of closing the office was just about all he could stand. And now, to be suddenly faced with this news about Jason Webb!

It was his place to look after Brand's interests in that little two by four hamlet, and go he would. That is, of course, if Brand agreed to the plan.

He had a session with Miss Ripley, and was amazed anew, to find how wisely she took in the situation, and promised to do her part in arranging the temporary closure of the firm of Herrick and Bliss.

"But he must be got out of that hole he is in," she exclaimed.

As confidential secretary, she had been to see Brand and had been shocked at his surroundings.

"The eternal fitness of things," she went on, "is all out of kilter if he has to live like that! Will Mr. Chadwick get him out?"

"I hope Fleming Stone will get him out. Mr. Chadwick can't do it."

Fleming Stone went to see Chadwick, and read to him the amazing and troublesome will.

"Relic of old melodrama," Chadwick said. "How could the old man find a lawyer who would draw up such a will?"

"I doubt a lawyer drew it up," Stone returned, "but it must be legally sound, as the city fathers of Edditt's Corners are already planning to use the money. They know Herrick is in prison, and doubtless, they hope for his electrocution. It is my aim and purpose to defeat their hopes."

"Just how?"

"You must have some legal knowledge that can outwit a parcel of money-grabbers."

"And why shouldn't they? The improvement of a little backwoods jerkwater, is in itself a laudable ambition."

"Said laudable ambition will be thwarted. If I can bring it about. And I feel pretty sure that you are going to help."

"In the face of your optimism, I can't help hoping a bit. How did Brand take this?"

"Standing. You know, he is furious over his arrest. He is not so much apprehensive as angry. He is belligerent and now, he is furious because he cannot start off for Michigan and see about this Jason Webb comedy act. Somebody must represent Herrick out there in the sticks, and it seems indicated that Mr. Bliss is the proper one. He's going to close the business office, temporarily, we hope, and do what he can in his partner's interests."

"That's very good! It's the only way. You are needed here and so am I. I hope to find a flaw in the police proceedings. I doubt they had sufficient evidence to arrest Brand. I can't let Catherine's boy go to the chair for a crime he did not commit. You don't think he killed the lady?"

"I do not. I'm going to see Mr. McCleod now, will he see me, do you think?"

"Oh, yes! he's Scotch but very much the gentleman. His sister is a Tartar, but probably you won't see her. What's your errand?"

"I want to see what he's like and learn what he can or will tell me about his wife."

"He's talkative enough, if he likes you. Make yourself agreeable to him."

"And I want to see the place. Then I'm to see Herrick tonight, and Bliss too. I'll see you tomorrow, and we'll get busy on the boy's release."

"You inspire me with your cheerful hope, but I'm not so confident. I can't help a feeling against that Murray chap. He's a bad egg. But get hold of the McCleods and let me know your findings."

"Why the sister? Is she implicated?"

"No, nor Hugh either. But I want you to see her as a unique specimen of womanhood. She has her good points, very much so. She's devoted to her old father, and she has bossed Hugh until he married."

"I think I shall like her."

Stone went away, and the lawyer sat wondering why he was going to the house. The detective had no reason for going except a desire to see the scene of the crime. He couldn't get the hang of the arrangement of the rooms, and he liked a mental picture. But his sympathy for the husband was increased when he learned of the dictatorial sister.

Mr. McCleod was undergoing a massage treatment that his sister had wished on him for the shock, which she insisted was still affecting him severely.

Learning of the detective's arrival, Miss McCleod went down to see him. She seemed a mild gentlewoman beside the mental picture Stone had of her, and she greeted him with a subdued cordiality that he thoroughly approved of.

"My brother will see you in a few moments," she said. "I am glad to have you to myself for a little. I want to speak to you seriously, Mr. Stone."

"Please do."

"If your interest in my sister-in-law's death is to consider someone other than Mr. Herrick as the criminal, I want to ask you to give up any such idea. Brand Herrick killed Mrs. McCleod. It would be a grave miscarriage of justice for you to imagine him wrongfully accused, and to suggest any other person could have been her murderer."

Fleming Stone looked at her directly. The directness of his glance had often brought confusion to the object of his attention.

Not so in this instance. Emmy McCleod gazed back at him without the quiver of an eyelash.

"Then, of course," he said, suavely, "you have some definite reason for your suspicion of Mr. Herrick. May I ask what it is?"

Emmy had every intention and indeed, every desire to give him a withering retort. But his voice was so gentle and his manner so sympathetic that she couldn't respond angrily.

She took refuge in an exceedingly dignified attitude and cold, precise tones.

"I was present," she said, "when Mr. Herrick was questioned as to his movements that night. His story was all that was needed to convince me he committed the dreadful deed."

"You have it clearly in your mind, then!" Stone looked straight at her. "Just the exact order in which those four young men entered and left the room where the lady was. I am glad of that, and I will ask you to detail it to me, for I am in charge of this case, and it is difficult to get a straightforward account of that episode."

Emmy made several unnecessary motions that proved her uncertainty if not embarrassment.

"Please tell me," Stone's pleasant voice repeated. "It will be positive proof, whereas now we are in doubt. If you will give me a short account of the young men's recitals and your own decision therefrom, I will not trouble further."

"I will do nothing of the sort, Mr. Stone. Since you have chosen to intrude on this saddened household, you show yourself an unwelcome busybody. And I will ask you to put an end to your visit."

"To you, yes, Miss McCleod. I will excuse you and await your brother. And I thank you for the welcome information you have given me—"

"I gave you no information!" the angry lady cried.

"Not knowingly, perhaps, but I gathered much that you didn't mean to tell me. Good day."

Stone rose, and actually bowed her from the room. She gave him a venomous look and went haughtily away.

After a few moments, McCleod came in, apparently ignorant of his sister's interview with Stone.

Triple Duty Wear for Week-End

By SUSAN BARDEN
(Inter. Ill. News Writer)

Now that the weather is definitely getting warmer, even the hardest working girls are dreaming up week-ends in the country.

Before the war most everyone, including the career girl, had plenty of time to make a lot of plans for her outings in the great out-doors. She could take a fair-sized bag and have lots of room for several changes of costumes so that she would be smertly dressed for any adventures her host and hostess had on the calendar.

But those days have gone for the duration. Whether you are working for a voluntary group or are taking the place of a man in war-time industry, you'll find that you'll want to travel lighter this season, because there will be much less motoring and a lot more train travel and this means suitcase luggage. Then you'll also have a lot less time to pack and assemble your week-end things, so some sort of triple-duty clothes that may be worn for lots of occasions is the most satisfactory answer.

Suited For Any Activity.

Mary Jo James had a week-end wardrobe designed which would be appropriate for almost any sort of activity. In the three above pictures some of the different variations are shown.

The first outfit is a four-piece gabardine suit which includes a smart new jacket in the longer length with the three-button closing, a seven-eighths topcoap of matching gabardine and a slender skirt that is ideal for travel. To change the costume into a slacks suit is no trick at all, the skirt is removed and a pair of well-tailored matching gabardine slacks are substituted.

The plaid blouse that is worn with the first costume is used in the second for a shirt and skirt outfit. The colors are beige, red and blue.

The third combination uses the same blouse, a pair of gabardine shorts, and a sleeveless gabardine jacket. This jacket can also be worn with the blouse and skirt if desired.

All of the gabardine items are in beige and would go well separately with other colors and other clothes, so that this one week-end wardrobe can be used many times in endless combination.

Child Guidance Club Concludes Season Monday

Eighteen members of the Child Guidance club were present when the last meeting of the season was held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. J. M. Lehman, 243 Wood street. Associate hostesses were Mrs. Dale Morris and Mrs. Robert DeHaven.

During the business session which was conducted by the vice president, Mrs. DeHaven, the club voted to join the "Party Patriots," beginning with the first fall meeting. Money formerly spent for refreshments will be used for the purchase of war bonds.

Following installation of officers, plans were made to have a picnic for the children on June 10 at the home of Mrs. LeRoy McGinty, 166 Venum avenue. Social committee, with Mrs. Paul Ackerman as chairman, will be in charge. "Motion Pictures and Children" was the program topic last evening. First paper was presented by Mrs. P. F. Haley; the second was read by the group. Refreshments were served by the hostesses. Next regular meeting will be held Oct. 12 at the home of Mrs. Harold Hamblin, 452 Hammond avenue.

Council To Elect Officers June 5

Lady Garfield Council No. 24 met at the Eagles hall recently with Mrs. Mary Smith, councilor, presiding. Mrs. Esther Beer, deputy president of the council, reported on the meeting at Bucyrus and asked that all contributions to the home and to the orphans' fund be turned in immediately.

Second nomination of officers was held and the election will take place at the next meeting, June 5. Letter from the state councilor, Mrs. Judith L. Dunn, asked for new members. Only American-born women are eligible. The Council contributed to the U.S.O. Gift for the evening was won by Mrs. Pearl Pollock.

Next meeting will be a "Cake Walk." All members are urged to attend. Committee members are Mrs. Elizabeth Croskey, Mrs. Nellie Staiger, Mrs. Ethel Gump and Mrs. Alice Hunter.

Sorority Plans Two Showers

Miss Grace Lewis entertained members of Kappa Kappa Kappa sorority Monday evening. Business session was conducted by the president, Mrs. Robert Haag. Two miscellaneous showers were planned: one in honor of Mrs. Martin Scheel, to be held at the home of Mrs. Irwin Lash, 224 Atchison avenue, on June 8; the other in honor of Mrs. Obed Crownover, at the home of Mrs. William SaVene, 356 West Fourth street, on June 10.

Special business meeting will be held on June 2 at the home of Mrs. Haag, 347 West Third street. Games and contests were enjoyed. Prizes were won by Miss Virginia Gerke and Mrs. Alex Schwaner. Luncheon was served buffet style. Next regular meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Glynn Bethea, 212 South Foster street.

IOTA SIGMA TO MEET.

Meeting of Iota Sigma, W. C. T. U., will be held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H S. Yohn, 572 Bowman street.

DELANO AUXILIARY.

Delano Axiliary will meet in the lodge hall this evening.

Vows Exchanged May 10 In Local Church Service

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Mary J. Gentille, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Thomas Gentille, 203 Miller street, and Harry Socea of Lorain, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Socea of Martins Ferry. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Grover Swoyer in the First English Lutheran church at 6:30 p. m., on May 10. Lilies and ferns decorated the altar.

Bride was given in marriage by her brother, James Gentille. For the ceremony Mrs. Socea was attired in a powder blue street length dress with navy blue accessories. She had a gardenia corsage. Miss Tillie Mollenkopf, maid of honor, wore a baby pink street length dress with navy blue accessories and a corsage of tea roses. The bride's mother, Mrs. Gentille, chose an aqua dress and had a corsage of pink roses.

Dwight Prosser served as best man for Mr. Socea.

Following the wedding a reception for the immediate families was held at the home of the bride's parents. Super was served buffet style. A three-tier wedding cake centered the table.

Mrs. Socea was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school and has been employed by the Tappan Stove company. Bridegroom, a graduate of Martins Ferry high school, is employed by the Thew Shovel company at Lorain, where the newlyweds are now residing at 307 Ninth street.

Guests in attendance at the wedding were from Cleveland, Lorain and Mansfield. Mrs. Socea was honored with a shower given at her home Saturday evening.

Shower Honors Mrs. Straits, Local Teacher

Honoring Mrs. Lloyd A. Straits, the former Miss Florence Robison, art supervisor in Mansfield public schools whose marriage was announced recently, Mrs. Lawrence White entertained at her home in Millersburg Sunday evening.

Upon arrival, each guest was presented with a corsage. Prizes in bridge were won by the Misses Edith Beck and Louise Thorne. Gifts from the guests and from the hostess were a Lowestaft bouquet and Royal Doulton china.

Color scheme for the party was yellow and white. A large bouquet of yellow daisies was centerpiece for the luncheon table. Smaller bouquets of the same flowers encircled six lighted white tapers. The four-tier wedding cake was decorated with yellow and white daisies and was topped with a miniature bridal couple. Two miniature bridesmaids also held yellow daisies. Ice cream molds repeated the party theme.

When the school year ends next week, Mrs Straits will join her husband, a lieutenant commander in the United States Naval Reserve, in Washington, D. C., where they will make their home.

Formal Dinner Enjoyed By Sorority Monday

Members of Delta Kappa Gamma sorority enjoyed a formal dinner at the Women's Club last evening as a combined birthday and Founders' day celebration. Miss Helen Myers was hostess for the occasion. Each table was decorated with a large bowl of roses and matching lighted tapers.

Candle lighting service held at the table in honor of the founders of Delta Kappa Gamma was in charge of Miss Reba Robinson. Miss Anita Strauch presented a linen gift from the group to Mrs. Lloyd Straits, the former Miss Florence Robison, whose marriage was announced recently.

Miss Helen Hartman, chapter president, conducted the business session after which the Misses Dorothy Moser, Edna Tucker and Evelyn Miseman were initiated into active membership in the chapter. Miss Flora Lentzy was received as an honorary member.

Couple Honored On Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Darling, 236 Parkway drive, entertained 25 relatives and friends at their home on Sunday in honor of the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Mowry of Canton. Mrs. Darling is the former Anna Mae Mowry, only daughter of the honored couple. There is one grandchild, Patricia Kay Darling.

When luncheon was served buffet style a four-tier wedding cake centered the table. The cake was decorated with white rosebuds and silver leaves. Mr. and Mrs. Mowry were recipients of many gifts.

Geography Should Now Be Stressed

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.

I FIND that among the things I learned at school when I was a lad from 10 to 14 years of age, which are most valuable to me today, are the facts I mastered in geography. At that time, I learned, as did most children then, names and the relative locations of the leading centers of the world with their chief cities, rivers, mountain ranges, bordering oceans, gulfs, bays and rivers. I also learned their relative latitudes and other factors which conditioned temperature and weather.

All these facts serve me in good stead as I read the newspapers and listen to the world news on the air.

When I became a teacher and later a trainer of teachers, at which most of my adult years have ben engaged, I saw a great change in the teaching of geography. For the last 25 years, indeed, place geography almost disappeared in favor of what was called "human geography." This human geography certainly was more interesting for most children than the place geography I was exposed to. Yet it lacked emphasis on facts about places and their relative positions in the world.

People may say, "Why should we bother teaching children about places on this globe when they naturally learn all that in their everyday experiences?"

The trouble is that most children of today don't learn facts about places incidentally. In one issue of a newspaper or one news broadcast we may read or hear news from many parts of the world. Many a youth today reading the daily paper or listening to news broadcasts, probably, supposes that Batavia is but a few miles from Moscow or London or that Cairo is little farther from Stockholm than is New York from Washington. Names of places most often in the news may mean little more than names to him. Let any reader who doubts this ask teen-age high school or college youths what direction Singapore is from Tokyo or about how far it is between Moscow and London.

Use of Maps.

Now I don't mean to say that only those who had formal education in place-geography at school have acquired useful and precise geographical information. On the contrary, many adults, and youths, who had little or no school training in place geography, have acquired intelligent geographical information.

Instead of leaving the good old practice of map reading to mere chance interest, the school and home should see to it that the growing child actually does use maps intelligently. Many wise parents have a map or globe displayed in the home and often refer to them in family conversations. In the presence of school-age children parents talk in terms of geographical positions, directions and distances in connection with the daily news. So do wise teachers in the classroom whether they are teaching geography as a school subject or not.

What I am driving at is that the home and school should emphasize place geography continually and that the regular subject of geography at school, while not neglecting the economic and human aspect of the subject, should also give due emphasis to information about places.

Scalloped Onions
Fudge-Nut Cake Squares
Coffee or Tea

Spaghetti with Tomatoes.

8 slices bacon
1 can tomatoes
2 onions, cut fine
Spaghetti

Cut bacon up in small pieces in frying pan, add onions, and fry until light brown. Add tomatoes and cook ½ hour. Cook spaghetti in boiling salted water until tender, drain and mix with first ingredients. Put in greased baking dish and bake 15 minutes. You can sprinkle the top with grated cheese if you like.

Rhubarb Brown Betty.

2 cups bread or graham cracker crumbs
¼ cup melted butter or margarine
1 lb. rhubarb
½ cup brown or granulated sugar
½ cup hot water
½ tsp. grated lemon rind

Melt butter in frying pan, put in crumbs and stir over low heat until lightly browned, then put layer of crumbs in bottom of baking dish. Over crumbs put layer of washed and cut-up rhubarb, sprinkle with sugar and grated lemon rind, cover with second layer of crumbs; add remaining rhubarb, rind and sugar, cover top with remaining crumbs. Moisten with water and bake in moderately hot oven (375° F.) until rhubarb is tender, for 30 to 40 minutes. Serve with cream, whipped or plain, or with a lemon or orange sauce.

Fruit French Dressing

½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. paprika
¼ cup orange juice
½ cup salad oil
1 Tbsp. lemon juice

Mix dry ingredients, add fruit juices, and stir until well blended; and oil and beat or shake until thoroughly mixed. Beat or shake before using. Makes ¾ cup.

Fudge-Nut Cake Squares.

1 cup sifted cake flour
2 tsps. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
½ cup vitaminized margarine
1 tsp. vanilla
3 oz. semi-sweet chocolate
1¼ cup dark corn syrup
3 well-beaten eggs
1 cup chopped nuts

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cream margarine well with melted chocolate, add corn syrup to eggs gradually, beating well; blend with margarine mixture. Stir in flour mixture, add nuts and vanilla. Bake in 2 well-greased pans at 350° F. When cold cut in squares.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

My father slipped his hand under my elbow and escorted me back to the car, where he spoke abruptly to Jack.

"My daughter tells me your name is Charles," he said.

Jack shot a quick glance at me, and I knew he was wondering whether I had told my father of his identity.

"That is what I am called," he said with mock humility. "Anything you'd like me to do?"

"Yes. Get your master out of the car," my father said abruptly, "and go with Mrs. Graham to that lighted house you see to the left. Here is the key, Madge. But wait a minute. We must get those two men from the other car first, the two who helped you get those gangsters down here.

"I do not wish those gangsters to hear my voice—not yet," he went on. "They already know yours' Madge, do they not?"

"Yes, I have talked to them," I told him.

Finds Diswell Is Hurt.

"Then I'm afraid I must ask you to go over there too, just long enough to get your two men away from the car and beckon Bill to come over here to me for instructions. Sorry to delay you, Professor Diswell."

"That's perfectly all right," the old man croaked.

"What's the matter?" my father asked abruptly, scrutinizing the old man's face closely. "You've been hurt."

"It's nothing. I'm all right," Professor Diswell protested valiantly.

"The gangsters manhandled and gagged him cruelly," I said in a low voice. "Dr. Twitchell really ought to see him first of all."

"And you," my father said firmly. "Those others can await the doctor's own good time. Now, just a second."

He beckoned first to Gus and Joe and gave them low-voiced instructions, then they ranged themselves one on either side of me.

"Your father said to tell you," Gus said, "that you didn't need to tell Bill nothing. I'm to do that. You're just to get Jim Watson and that state trooper away, and tell 'em not to say any good-byes, either. We don't want those blindfolded skunks to hear any more than necessary."

"I understand," I told him, and we went to the other car, where I called Jim Watson and the state trooper to the door.

"If you'll just come with me now," I said, "my father's men will take over here."

The state trooper gathered up his sheets of paper, and Jim Watson slipped his pipe in his pocket.

"You know what to do, Gus?" I asked in muted tones.

"Yes, ma'am; your father just told us," he replied.

"Then," as I turned to Jim Watson and the trooper, "please come with me."

I led them to where my father stood and introduced them to him. That they were both a bit awed by meeting a high officer of the secret service, of whom the captain of the troopers evidently had told them, was plainly to be seen. But my father put them at ease immediately, and in another minute we were walking up the steps of the apartment house he had indicated.

Jack Guards Suitcase.

Jack, in the guise of Charles, carried the big suitcase and brief case which I had seen him lock into the trunk of the car, and which he would permit no other hand than his to touch.

Inside the living room we found Dr. Twitchell and Ronald talking together. Ronald made an impulsive movement toward me, but stopped when I shook my head at him. Then my father, after seating Professor Diswell and me and telling the others to find chairs for themselves, spoke crisply, putting his hand on Professor Diswell's arm.

"Dr. Twitchell, I have two patients for you—my daughter and Professor Diswell. Will you please attend to them as quickly as you can."

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, May 27.

Unusual activity with much profitable, productive and progressive effort of expansive and enduring scope is augured from the interesting chain of benign planetary aspects. It may be a time for working hard for many rich fulfillments and objectives, although in some places there may be want of either private or public cooperation. However, influential friends are at hand, probably in large corporations or political bodies.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a year of much profit, pleasure and joy of achieved ambitions and objectives whether they be private, professional, business or financial. All are under highly expansive and fruitful influences, although certain public or private collaboration may be withheld. But personal prestige, ingenuity and efforts should find fruition.

A child born on this day may be assured of a progressive, prosperous, happy and serviceable life, which should reward its worthy ambitions and unusual abilities.

Britain's Mediterranean fortress of Malta has had an average of two bombing raids a day since Italy entered the war.

Good Looks Can Be Spoiled

By MME. QUI VIVE

We've always had the Drive Yourself woman with us, but she is multiplied now by the hundreds because of the demented state of the world. She's up early, works late, sets herself a certain number of tasks to do each day, and she'll do them even if she drops in her tracks. She is annoyed with other people who won't gallop along with her. She doesn't understand that, like quick thinkers and slow thinkers, there are quick doers and those who are not speedy. Temperaments aren't all cut off the same piece of cloth. Sometimes the slow-moving girls are that way because of some minor physical disturbance, which should be taken into account.

We're all for activity: it is a law of life. It's better to work a bit too hard than to stagnate. But human motors must let up now and then, so they can become re-energized. The Drive Yourself lady is doing herself an injustice. The price she will pay will be in beauty currency. Wrinkles will come early, she'll have pouches under her eyes. Silver threads will appear in her brain mop long before their time. Let her pause and take heed.

Because of the war, every son and daughter of Uncle Sam is under a certain amount of mental strain and nerve tension. We can't afford to overlook health measures. The physical being must be kept in condition, if we are to carry on. The tired woman will drop out of the ranks.

Fatigue brings about chemical changes in the body. Toxins are created; they have a depressing effect upon the spirits, make us inefficient. They slow up the step, eyes are dull, the skin pales, circulation and digestion are not normal. To continue to work at high pressure after a sense of weariness seizes one is to harbor so many fatigue bugs that several days may pass before one is fit and in form again.

The cure is found in sound sleep, relaxed muscles, sunshine, fresh air. Any pick-up tonic is just whipping a tired horse uphill.

Some girls who are working for the first time in their lives are still trying to keep up the gay life. They tear around to late parties, scramble out early in the morning. Noisy gatherings are no release from tension.

Outdoor pleasures offer twice as much fun. They are restoratives to the body and mind that are weary. They create good appetite and good appetite means rebuilding. They may bring fatigue, but it is the kind that invites restful, dreamless sleep.

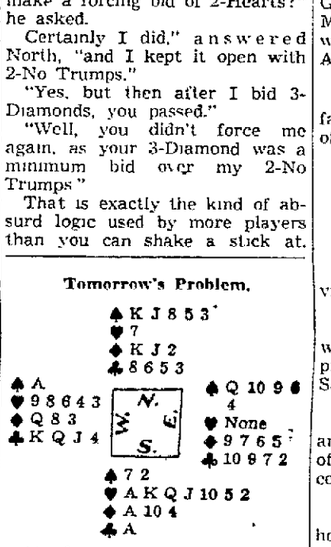
"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T MISS THAT GAME

When your pair is using an opening two-bid of a suit to guarantee enough strength to make game, you should never allow the deal to be played at less than a game contract unless your opponents afford you an opportunity for a business double which will penalize them more points than a game is worth. If you keep the bidding open the first time with 2-No Trumps, and your partner then bids three of either the same or another suit, you must keep it open the second time, with either a biddable suit, a preference for one of his suits or, lacking any of these, with 3-No Trumps, and you still are further obligated if after that he bids four in a minor suit, as you must never let it end below game, unless you do not like games.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
2 ♥	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 ♦	Pass	3 NT	Pass
4 ♦	Pass	4 ♥

That bidding is what should have occurred on this hand, but what actually happened is that North, after keeping the bidding open with 2-No Trumps, passed South's 3-Diamonds and, as a consequence, a sure game went to seed.

South thereupon gave a very fine exhibition of a man driven almost crazy. "Didn't you hear me make a forcing bid of 2-Hearts?" he asked.

Certainly I did," answered North, "and I kept it open with 2-No Trumps."

"Yes, but then after I bid 3-Diamonds, you passed."

"Well, you didn't force me again, as your 3-Diamond was a minimum bid over my 2-No Trumps."

That is exactly the kind of absurd logic used by more players than you can shake a stick at. They seem not to realize that the original bidder still holds the same hand on which he said, with his first bid, "I can make game in my own hand, but am a bit in doubt as to what is the best declaration. I know that your hand is rotten, because I hold practically all of the high cards in the deck. Your distribution is all I care about, and I want to know which declaration of mine best fits your distribution. If you have any high cards at all, then think of a slam."

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

If West opens this deal with 1-Heart, how would you like the South plan to show your hand?

SECOND FRONT TALK REACHES FEVER PITCH

Arrival of Top U. S. Officers In London Spurs Belief New Assault Near.

American Eagle squadrons of the RAF.

The Americans rested briefly after their arrival and then conferred over the breakfast table with U. S. Ambassador John G. Winant.

They planned to meet almost immediately with high ranking British military leaders.

Presence of the air chiefs in London was considered highly significant in view of Prime Minister Winston Churchill's recent statement in a review of the war that the RAF would increase its heavy air blows against the reich and within due time would be joined by American air forces.

These events dove-tailed with a subsequent announcement by an authoritative British spokesman that the United Nations would be able to send 1,000 planes daily against Germany and destroy the backbone of Germany's war production.

Reliable reports have stated that the joint operations in Europe would be conducted in the same manner as air forces of America and Australia have been working in the southwest Pacific, with the RAF and American forces retaining separate identities but cooperating fully in combined assaults.

Sees Second Front Terminating War

DAVENPORT, England—(INS)—Leslie Hore-Belisha, former British war secretary, declared today that the successful establishment of a second front on the European continent might end the war this year.

The former war secretary, dismissed from his post during the Chamberlain cabinet shakeup in 1940, last week attacked the government's war policies in the house of commons where he criticized Prime Minister Churchill for assuming the portfolio of defense minister as well as the premiership.

WPA FACES CUT

Spokesman Sees 70 Per Cent Slash in Agency Funds.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Ohio's already sharply curtailed WPA program likely will be trimmed 60 to 70 per cent during the next fiscal year, spokesmen said today. The estimate was based on President Roosevelt's recommendation that congress allow only $280,000,000 for the program nationally during the year beginning July 1.

Expenditures in the state for the year ending June 30 are expected to be about $38,000,000 Cutting this two-thirds, would provide possibly $10,000,000 or $12,000,000 for the new year.

The WPA now is operating in only 61 of the state's 88 counties, and as of May 19 a total of 35,805 persons were carried on the rolls. A year ago there were 81,507.

appearance of a large oil slick and wreckage on the surface.

Although an authorized announcement at Fortaleza yesterday was positive in stating that the submarine had been sunk, Brazilian authorities here said they still lacked official information and United States authorities here denied having the "slightest confirmation of this report."

At Recife the rescue ship Rio Igauzu, with survivors from an unidentified ship variously reported to 56, was expected almost hourly.

Authorities were unable to confirm Axis broadcasts that the survivors were from a United States battleship of the Maryland class which the Italians have claimed was sunk by one of their submarines.

PAY BOOSTED

CANTON—(AP)—The board of education here voted salary increases totaling $70,000 for elementary and high school teachers, elementary principals, janitors and custodians.

Uniform increases of $95 a year were voted for all high school and elementary teachers now below the maximum salary, with the maximum being raised from $1,800 to $1,900 for elementary teachers and from $2,500 to $2,600 for high school teachers.

have enough "to reach Algeria in an emergency."

Meanwhile, Admiral Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham, who has just left his post as commander of Britain's Mediterranean fleet to head the British admiralty delegation in Washington, said here it would be "very nasty" for the Allies if the French naval forces at Toulon were turned over to the Axis.

Of the French naval vessels interned at Alexandria, he said they were "entirely pro-Vichy" when he left there recently.

Dispatches from Bern yesterday said both Germany and Italy appeared cooling fast toward Laval.

Meanwhile, the Germans are using Italian territorial demands to force France to give up the fleet peaceably, at the same time insisting that Laval produce for the Axis or get out, it was declared.

"The temper of the French people is such Laval does not dare carry out whole-hearted cooperation as he knows it would cause his downfall," the source said.

The opinion was expressed that there was no Frenchman the Germans could put in Laval's place and that the next step could only be occupying all of France and appointing Jacques Doriot, turncoat Communist leader, as a quisling.

Italians Detail Territory Demands

NEW YORK —(AP)— Italy has sent to Pierre Laval a detailed note on territorial demands against France, according to trustworthy advices from Europe today.

Well-informed diplomatic observers in Europe said the Italian representations did not constitute an ultimatum; hence the Vichy French government still had hopes of adjusting matters by negotiation.

They said, however, that Vichy had indicated willingness to discuss Tunisia, French North African possession which the Italians have claimed since before the World war.

Current Italian pressure was reported directed mainly at acquisition of Nice and the island of Corsica.

PUPIL MILITARY TRAINING SEEN

Cleveland Board of Education Talks Program for Seniors.

CLEVELAND—(INS)—One of the most policy-changing meetings of the Cleveland board of education ever held today brought the possibility of military training to senior students in the city's high schools.

Although the decision to inaugurate a program of military training was postponed until the next meeting, the fact that it was brought up and cost estimates asked, made it seem probable that older boys next fall would get the rudiments of army training as part of their school work.

The board members granted raises totaling $20,000 to some school employes.

exhibition was directed by Mehock, assisted by Principals Glen Robinson, Edward Kissel, Harry J. Dotson and George Harmony.

Youngsters of all sizes and ages, from six-year-olds to high school seniors danced, raced and played games.

Plenty of laughs attended the series of novelty relay races given by senior high school boys under the direction of Paul H. Snyder and Vern B. Hoffman. Teams competed in races where boys were forced to crawl under mats, and through each other's legs, and race with their feet and legs in sacks.

Another part of the program which especially caught the eye of the crowd was the exhibition of defense exercises, presented by John Simpson junior high school.

Dressed in white gym suits the Simpson boys and girls, under the direction of Miss Martha Thompson and Rebert DeHaven, went through a series of setting up exercises in perfect unison."

Two folk dances, "Jump Jim Crow," given by the first graders, and "Yankee Doodle" by the second grade pupils opened the program. The dances were directed by elementary school teachers of the two grades.

Third graders played a circle game, "Charley Over the Water" and fifth grade pupils took part in another circle game, a numbers call. They were led by their respective teachers in the games.

Costumed in straw hats, overalls and sun bonnets the pupils of the sixth grade, directed by their teachers, danced the "Virginia Reel" to the music of "Turkey In the Straw."

Fourth graders took part in a "Canyon" relay race in which the teams lined up in single file and passed volleyballs back the lines through their legs. The game was in charge of the fourth grade teachers.

The Scotch dance, presented by Senior high school girls under the direction of Miss Lola Stephenson, was one of the most colorful of the exhibition. The girls, dressed in plaid skirts, white blouses, and red Scotch caps, and sashes, danced traditional Scottish dances.

Flag-raising ceremonies by the American Legion color guard opened the program.

The public address system and announcements during the exhibition were handled by A. LeMoine Derr.

Pneumonia Fatal To Former Lucas 'Phone Operator

LUCAS — Mrs. John Arehart, lifelong resident of Richland county, died last night at Mansfield General hospital of pneumonia following a recent operation. She was the former Jessie Leiter.

Mrs. Arehart served as telephone operator at the Lucas exchange for several years and was well-known to residents of this vicinity. She was a member of the Lucas Congregational church and its Ladies Aid society.

Survivors are her husband, a son, Derl Arehart of Mansfield; a daughter, Mrs. Lawrence Flenner, a sister, Mrs. Charles Hunt, and a brother, D. P. Leiter, all of Lucas; and two grandsons.

The body is at the Arehart residence where friends may call until noon Wednesday. Funeral services will be held privately because of the illness of Mr. Arehart, who is suffering from pneumonia. Rev. J. A. Peyton will officiate at service Wednesday at 3 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Flenner. Burial will be in the Odd Fellow's cemetery.

BILL AFFECTS UNION STATUS

Proposal Would Put Unions Under Anti-Racketeering Law.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The house judiciary committee today approved a bill designed to bring labor unions within the scope of the anti-racketeering law and defining any obstruction of commerce as a felony.

Although the measure does not specifically mention labor, Rep. Sam Hobbs (D., Ala.), it author, said the bill was intended "to repeal" a recent decision of the supreme court holding that unions cannot be held liable for violations of the anti-racketeering statute.

Pro-Jap Treason Plot Bared In Australia

PERTH, Australia—(INS)—A plot to overthrow the Australian government, establish an "Australia First" National Socialist government and "assist the armed forces of Japan," today was charged to three men and a woman. They will be tried in the Australian supreme court.

The four are charged with conspiring to aid Japan in the event of an invasion, plotting to kill a number of prominent Australian leaders, including Maj. Gen. Gordon-Bennett, and planning widespread sabotage and disruption of communications

Nineteen other men and women suspected of being members of the Australia First movement, it was revealed, have been interned. A number of documents have been seized indicating "fifth column activities of the worst kind."

Japs Admit Loss of 57 Ships, 248 Planes

TOKYO—(By Official Japanese Wireless) — (INS) — The imperial high command admitted in a special communique today that at least 57 Japanese naval and auxiliary vessels had been lost or damaged up to May 20.

A total of 248 Japanese planes were missing, it was said.

Among the naval losses were included a small aircraft carrier, a seaplane carrier, six destroyers and "special vessels," six submarines, five special submarines, a mine layer, six minesweepers, two small naval craft and two converted vessels.

Brave Monsoons to Harass Japanese

MELBOURNE — (U.P.) — United States and Australian planes flew through monsoon storms and fought off Japanese fighter planes to continue their persistent offensive and bomb the enemy's two big northeastern invasion bases yesterday, it was announced today.

They attacked the airdromes at Rabaul, in New Britain island, and Lae, on the north coast of New Guinea, raining bombs on runways and buildings. They shot down four of the Japanese fighter planes which fought vainly to drive them off.

As they headed homeward, the Rabaul attackers saw big fires blazing at the Vanakanau airdrome.

The chief attack was made on the Vanakanau field, 12 miles east of Rabaul

Sticking to their attack despite a strong force of enemy interceptor planes, the Allied bombers scored hits on grounded airplanes and hit buildings with demolition and incendiary bombs.

Two enemy planes were shot down in the Rabaul raid, and two more were downed by the bombers which attacked Lae. One Allied plane was shot down in the Lae fighting.

Japs Issue List of Allied Ships 'Sunk'

Japan, preparing for the climax tomorrow of an anniversary celebration of its first great sneak victory, issued today a list of its claims of allied warships and planes sunk or damaged since Dec. 7.

Prominent in the list of American warships claimed as sunk was the cruiser Marblehead, whose arrival at a United States port from the southwest Pacific battle area was announced May 6.

Japan claimed eight battleships, including six American, sunk and six, including five American, damaged; six allied aircraft carriers and tenders sunk, including five American, and a long list of cruisers and smaller craft, totalling 169 with a tonnage of 503,120 sunk or damaged.

It said the Japanese navy had destroyed or heavily damaged 2,274 allied planes.

Japan is celebrating the 37th anniversary of its victory over the Russian fleet.

Colored Youths Off For Army; July Draft Call Expected To Be Heaviest Yet.

per cent of these men will be drawn from the original two registrations, the remainder from the third registration—those in the 20-21 and 35-45 age groups.

This morning's send-off crowd made up in enthusiasm what it lacked in size. For the first time there was no band present and patriotic airs were played over a sound truck public address system. James Brownscombe, master of ceremonies at the "going away" parties held at the Legion Home for selectees, read the names of the departing men, and the crowd gave the selectees hearty applause.

The three draft boards in the city are busy this week mailing occupational questionnaires to men in the first two registrations. The forms already have been mailed to the Feb. 16 registrants.

Board clerks urged recipients of the questionnaires to fill them out and return them to their boards promptly in cases of changes in address and dependency. Many records more than a year old list an unborn child as dependent, and have never been brought up to date on the birth of a child, clerks said.

Boards should be notified also in case a wife quits work or starts work, and when a man and wife "split up," it was pointed out.

Men With Families 'Safe,' Says Hershey

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — (U.P.) — Men with dependents may feel "reasonably safe" that they will not be called for military service this year, according to Maj.-Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national selective service director.

"The American family must be nurtured and protected, but it must not be a refuge for those who don't want to serve their country," he told the institute of war problems at Harvard last night.

Earlier in the day, Gen. Hershey indicated that men from 35 to 45, including those with dependents, may be drafted for essential war work and said they "would do well to visit the U. S. employment office now."

HEY, MEN! WIFE'S FALL OUTFIT MUST REMAIN AT 1941 FIGURE

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON— Men! Here's some good news for you today—fall styles of women's and children's coats, suits, dresses, blouses and many other outerware garments will not cost one penny more than they did last season.

The price decree was issued by the price administration, which also forbade any seller of such merchandise from adding any lines of garments costing more than the highest price line he handled last fall.

Effective Friday, the price ceiling order applies to manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers.

Under the order, manufacturers are required to mark 1942 fall styles with the label "Price under OPA Reg. No. 153." Sale of the garment is forbidden unless so labelled.

OPA Chief Leon Henderson said that savings in cloth effected by recent war production board orders will help manufacturers absorb increased costs of labor and materials.

Henderson warned, however, that the garments "must be substantially equal in workmanship and quality to the garment delivered during the base period."

Rap Army and Navy for Rubber Demands

THE WAR TODAY

(This daily feature, conducted by DeWitt Mackenzie, Wide World war analyst, is being written in his absence by Fred Vanderschmidt.)

Arrival in London of both the U. S. chief of naval aeronautics and the head of the U. S. Army air forces is not only a sign of planning for the all-out aerial offensive against continental Europe which will precede and accompany Allied invasion; it also demonstrates Allied determination to cope with the more urgent problem of the two great sea flanks to the continental front.

One of these flanks is the Norwegian-Arctic ocean route to Russia. The other is the Mediterranean. German air power grows more dangerous on both. Naval air forces, more than the British have got, are needed to meet the danger—particularly to the far north supply route to Murmansk, where for hundreds of miles the Allied convoys are vulnerable to land-based bombers.

There also is the continual threat in the north of the Nazi fleet units.

The weak spot in British naval air strength is believed by many to be lack of dive bombers. Dive bombers are the specialty of Rear Admiral John H. Towers, who heads the new mission to London with Lieut. Gen. Henry H. Arnold.

They also can get the first-hand Mediterranean picture from Admiral Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham, until recently commander in chief of the British Mediterranean fleet.

The Axis, through tremendous Mediterranean air reinforcement, has dealt heavy recent blows to the British there: three new destroyers sunk in one day, widespread devastation at Malta.

On the horizon is the menace of a French fleet in the hands of Germans.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

MY friend, Tommy Dorsey, tells me that so far as he can see, the "one nighters" of very recent and hallowed memory are now doomed for the duration, and that the jitterbugs, who lived and breathed for the next appearance at their local palladium of Harry James or Vaughan Monroe, will have to suspend their incredible enthusiasm until gas and tires can once again bring the slush-pumps and the licorice sticks to their front door.

Kilgallen

The hitherto footloose and tire-happy maestros used to skip gaily from Abilene, Texas, to Little Rock, Ark., to Peru, Ind., by a skillful blend of train, bus and last flivver, but the gas and rubber situation now compels them to follow the railroad lines almost exclusively and do their personal appearances at places close by the depots.

This is shattering news to the swing fans, but I am inclined to urge them to take heart. Grim as things look, I have faith in the ingenuity of the jive fraternity, and I think that before very long they will have figured out some way of getting from dance hall to steel pier without the aid of a gas buggy.

In fact, I am ready to help them out with a few suggestions. How about using flat-boats, barges and canoes? The musicians could float from town to town, much as the old showboat troupes do, and have a lovely lazy river life in between ports. Or they could hire Indian scouts to blaze new trails through the wilderness between dates, with the assorted music-makers trailing, along after.

I can just picture Glenn Miller on horseback, his faithful band behind him, winding through mountain passes on his way to an appearance; Ray McKinley's crew, decked in green buckskin, bravely hacking its path through an Ohio forest country on the way to a prom date in Columbus; Count Basie and his fellows crossing the plains in a collection of covered wagons filled with saxes and trombones.

I can see them now, drawn up at night in a circle around the friendly campfire, beating it out hot and fast and loud in a jam session far from the Famous Door. Yes, I can see it now, and the idea appeals to me. This temporary curtailment of normal travel may give swing a pioneer tradition all its own.

I never suspected myself of being a throw-back to the crinoline era, but I still get something of a shock when I see a woman in uniform walking with a man in civilian clothes. Some of the girls look very cute in their snappy suits, so you can understand why the fellows want to go strolling with them, but there's no getting away from it, the combination has a peculiar aspect to the unconditioned eye. When I see it little problems of etiquette keep running through my mind. Which should walk on the outside, the brisk uniform or the meek mufti? Should he take her arm crossing streets? If he meets a friend, should she lift her hat?

Wonder when the Stage Door Canteen will hold its first beauty or popularity contest with the soldier and sailor boys for judges?

The entrants would be humdingers, all of them, and it ought to make an amusing stunt . . . I must admit I love daffy titles on books—names like Jerome Weidman's "The Horse That Could Whistle Dixie" and Saroyan's "Across the Board on Tomorrow Morning." They're a refreshing swing of the pendulum from those corny love and spring and heartbreak titles of the Temple Bailey era in fiction.

Now that summer is icumen in, New Yorkers might like to be reminded that the two breeziest, chilliest spots on the island are (1) Chambers street, right at the Municipal building; (2) Rockefeller Plaza, the little street that cuts across Radio City from 49th to 51st.

It is not very often that I roll up my sleeves and sit down to my portable to tap out a paragraph of unreserved praise about a motion picture, but this is the day, and the picture is "Mrs. Miniver." I am not doing "Mrs. Miniver" any great favor to say it is a fine and beautiful and stirring film; everyone will think so. If only one person in the world had seen it up to now, word would have gotten around that this was a special event.

Based on the book of the same name, it is far better than the book, and credit for that goes, I think, to William Wyler, who directed it with spirit and humor and sympathy and what must have been great love. He has made the No. One picture of this World war.

MILLER SAYS HE'S OUT OF GOVERNOR RACE

Plan to Give Him Clear Field Fails as Other Candidates Refuse to Withdraw.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—A campaign to give Ray T. Miller of Cleveland an unobstructed path to the Democratic gubernatorial nomination crumbled today under the steadfast refusal of three avowed candidates to step aside.

At the end of a "harmony program" meeting last night, Miller walked out and said:

"I am not a candidate for governor. I am very grateful to those who believed I should be a candidate."

Al Horstman of Dayton, state central committee chairman who presided at last night's session commented:

"We were unable to reach any kind of harmony program. The field is left open to anyone who wants to run for governor."

So ended efforts of a group of party leaders, many from urban sections, to "draft" the party's Cuyahoga county chairman for the race and persuade the announced candidates to withdraw.

But the three—State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, former State Treasurer Clarence H. Knisley and former Congressman John McSweeney of Wooster—said they were not quitting. They went to the meeting together, and left together.

"We still are very much in the race," they said upon departing.

They had been invited to the conference by a special committee of Miller supporters who, it was understood, advanced the suggestion that an "organization" candidate be chosen at a special meeting of the state central committee or of county chairmen.

The three said no.

Ferguson remarked he once was told by party leaders that Gov John W. Bricker "couldn't be beaten" this year.

"I decided to see if I couldn't do the job," he said.

Miller was "drafted" for the nomination at a meeting of 40 influential Democrats here two weeks ago. Observers said urban leaders directed the move chiefly against McSweeney.

MOTHER ADMITS OHIO SLAYING

Says She Shot Man at Window of Bedroom; Letter Hints Extortion.

(By Associated Press)

BATAVIA, O.—A tiny mother of four small children today maintained she fired the bullet which killed Cleve Gillman, 46, in front of her bedroom window.

Mrs. Cynthia Sarvaer, 35, was held in Clermont county jail on a first degree murder charge filed by Gillman's widow, Minnie, after an inquest disclosed Gillman was killed almost instantly last Friday night by a bullet from a 31-caliber revolver which Sheriff Tom Brooks said Mrs. Sarvaer purchased a few hours earlier.

Sheriff Brooks said Gillman's body was found across the window sill in a first-floor bedroom of Mrs. Sarvaer's rural home.

A letter in the slain man's pocket said he had arranged to meet Mrs. Sarvaer at her open bedroom window Friday night to extort money, and if "they" killed him, whoever read the letter would know why, Prosecutor Ray Bradford said.

Mrs. Sarvaer admitted the shooting, Bradford said, but held to her story that she fired at an intruder unknown to her.

The four Sarvaer children were at home at the time but the woman's husband, James, recently has returned home only on week-ends from Cincinnati where he has a war-plant job, Brooks said.

RETIRED FARMER DIES AT AGE 72

James T. Henry Stricken at Home Of Son In Toledo.

A retired Richland county farmer, James T. Henry, 72, died at the home of his son, Vaughn Henry in Toledo, Monday following a brief illness.

Surviving are two sons, Lee, of Olivesburg, and Vaughn, with whom he had made his home since the death of his wife two months ago, a step-daughter, Mrs. J. A. Avery, of Mansfield; and three grandchildren and a brother, William, of Olivesburg.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

REFORMATORY MADE 'TEST TUBE' IN STATE T. B. CONTROL PROGRAM

Ohio State Reformatory at Mansfield is being used as a "test tube" to develop a program of tuberculosis control for inmates of Ohio institutions, State Health Director R. H. Markwith announced today in Columbus, the Associated Press reported.

The reformatory medical staff is testing all 2,183 prisoners and the state health department is doing the laboratory work to detect those afflicted with "T. B."

Positive tests, denoting tuberculosis, are classified into active, convalescent, and quiescent cases, and will be segragated accordingly, Dr. Markwith explained.

He said the work is being done in cooperation with the state welfare department. Originally heads of the two departments contemplated a tuberculosis control program for all state institutions, housing more than 37,000 persons.

The war disrupted the large-scale plan, Dr. Markwith said, but the state went ahead with the "sampling" work at Mansfield to obtain information which later might be used at other institutions.

Dr. Markwith explained that "active" patients would be segregated until the disease reached the "convalescent" stage. Those in that phase of the disease would be treated separately until "quiescent" and when cured would be returned to regular quarters, he continued.

Arthur L. Glattke, reformatory superintendent, was not available today for additional comment. He is attending a meeting in Louisville this week.

FOUND DEAD

Richland Farmer, 67, Will Be Buried Tomorrow.

SHILOH—Funeral services for Clyde E. Backensto, 67-year-old farmer, who was found dead in bed at his home two miles northeast of Rome Monday afternoon, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the McQuate funeral home.

Rev. Nevin Stover, pastor of Mt. Hope Lutheran church, will officiate. Burial will be in Shiloh cemetery.

Backensto had been living alone since the death of his wife two years ago. Dr. L. B. McCullough, Richland county coroner, said death was due to natural causes. He set the time of death at some time early Sunday.

McCullough and Deputy Sheriff Glenn Freeman were forced to break down the door of the home to gain entrance. They were summoned by D. V. Trago of Shelby, a stepson, after neighbors had gone to the Backensto home and received no response to their knocks at the door.

Surviving are the stepson, and a stepdaughter, Mrs. Frank McLaughlin of Shelby.

MRS. REGULA, 59, DIES IN WILLARD

Former New Washington Resident To Be Buried Thursday.

WILLARD—A former resident of New Washington, Mrs. Vesta Regula, 59, died at the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Hazel Nickler here Monday following a lingering illness.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Bertha Rowan, of Logan; a son, Leo F. Drumbarger, of Willard; three sisters, Mrs. Bertha King, of Attica, Mrs. Naomi Capelle, of Havana, O., Mrs. Lucretia Stout, of Willard, and three brothers, William Nickler, of Willard, O. J. Nickler, of New Haven, and H. R. Nickler, of Youngstown.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday at the Secor funeral home. Rev. G. C. Heffelfinger, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church will officiate. Burial will be in Goodwill cemetery in Crawford county.

Up and Down THE STREET

There's life in the old man yet! At least the fathers of Troop No. 3 Boy Scouts at Woodville school are going to try to prove it tomorrow night. It all started when scouts soundly whipped their dads in an impromptu baseball game recently. Maybe the whole thing would have been dropped if the boys hadn't kept on razzing their sires until the "old men" challenged their sons to a return engagement to be held at the school tomorrow evening. Both teams have been engaging in secret practice and it's going to be a real game with wives and families of the players on hand to see whether Dad or Junior swings the lustiest bat.

Harry Schlegel, deputy city engineer, isn't very good at finding golf balls once they go into the rough but his keen eyesight recently got him 36 new plastic tees. The tees were a gift from an acquaintance who lost a wrist watch on the Possum Run golf course last year. Schlegel found the watch half-buried in the sand just on the edge of the rough while playing at Possum Run the other day. The watch still ran when wound but the hands refused to move. The plastic tees were given Schlegel in appreciation of his finding the watch.

Once again Mansfield "makes. . a national magazine. This time it's American Home. In the June issue of the magazine, on the news stands today, appears a lengthy story, complete with pictures, on the Westinghouse "Health for Victory" club, organized among the wives of company employes by Mrs. Julia Kiene, Westinghouse home economics director. One photograph shows Mrs Kiene discussing food prices with William Constance, of Constance market. Other pictures show four Westinghouse family groups in their homes—Mrs. Lewis Shrewsberry and two children, Mrs. John W. Zeigler, Mrs. M. W. Stretch and three children, and Mrs. M. C. Yerigan and three children.

Mansfield may be a little larger city in 60 days if county commissioners aprove a petition for annexing a section of the Bell Heights addition near Liberty park. The petition had been filed with the commissioners today by City Solicitor Leslie Wagner and final hearing was set for July 22 at the commissioners office. The area proposed for annexation includes a number of homes in the section between Liberty park and the North American Knitting company.

READY TO OPEN

Seccaium Park To Resume on Memorial Day.

Seccaium Park, near Bucyrus, will open on Memorial day for its 43rd season, operators of the resort announced today. A fireworks display on Saturday night will be one of the big features of the opening.

There will be free dancing Saturday and Sunday afternoons. Music for social plan dancing will be provided by George Terry and his 10 Collegians.

Ten rides will be in operation for the opening, with other smaller rides for the kiddies. The park will be open every day for picnics after the opening, and there will be dancing on Tuesdays, Saturdays and Sundays, until the regular summer program of nightly dancing starts.

HARRINGTON TO ADDRESS CLUB

CPT Director To Outline Training Program Tomorrow.

James R. Harrington, director of the Mansfield Civilian Pilot Training program, will address the Gyro club at its meeting at the Mansfield-Leland hotel at 6:30 p. m. tomorrow.

Harrington will tell of the expansion of the government's pilot-training program. Paul W. Blayney is program chairman.

A group of Mansfield club members will attend a luncheon in Columbus at noon tomorrow, honoring International President Wally Robinson, member of the British and Canadian war mission, who was in Singapore just before it fell, and has since been in the East Indies and Australia.

SENATORS SAY FORCES MIGHT FACE SHORTAGE

Defense Investigating Unit Approves Gasoline Ration, Tire Rationing.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The senate defense investigating committee criticized the army and navy today for not paring their rubber requirements asserting if the production of synthetics did not come up to schedule the military forces "may find themselves without rubber at some future date."

In a 57-page report, the committee said:

National gasoline rationing on "a sensible basis" and the requisitioning of tires must be given serious consideration.

There will be no new or reclaimed rubber at all for non-essential uses within the next three years.

The best that could be expected from a successful synthetic program would be to supply military needs and essential civilian requirements.

Resources in this hemisphere offer little hope of adding substantially to United Nations supplies of crude rubber.

The committee recommended that "some one person" be designated to assume full responsibility over the rubber program. Such a task recently was assigned to Arthur Newhall.

Much space was devoted to the committee's investigation of the former tie-up between Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey) and the German dye trust, I. G. Farben industrie.

The committee said that Standard's agreements with I. G. Farben "seriously impeded the developments of Buna-S (synthetic) rubber" in this country. It added that Standard "was not backward in offering plans for large plants for raw materials and rubber to be built under government auspices for it and others."

The committee said its best available information indicated the German army "was built and has been rolling on less than 200,000 tons of rubber a year." This compared with what the committee described as the "frenzied consumption" of 766,000 tons for all purposes in the United States in 1941.

Declaring 55 per cent of all driving had been found essential, the committee said that national gasoline rationing on a sensible basis must be considered in order to cut down the other 45 per cent.

Because of the controversy over gasoline rationing, the report said, attention has been "diverted from the inescapable fact that even if drivers could have all of the gasoline their motors could burn, they would still have to reduce driving to a bare minimum in order to conserve rubber."

Requisitioning of tires was not "a present necessity," the committee said.

Warns Business Advertising Must Hold Up In War

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—(AP)—Advertising must keep going right on, war or not," says Alexander Thomson, jr., executive of a Hamilton, O., paper and fibre company.

He told the Southern Graphic Arts association yesterday that "too many businessmen, in an emergency such as this, fail utterly to protect or even allow for depreciation of consumer goodwill and public acceptance, which may be worth many times the value of their business."

He added:

"The battle of advertising goes right along as to whether advertising is an economic and social liability or whether it is the benefactor which puts merchandise into the hands of ordinary people and constantly reduces prices. The fact remains that America is the richest country in the world with the highest standard of living. Advertising has made that possible."

REPORT PAY RAISE

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The AFL Gas Station Operators and Petroleum Truck Drivers' union said today that it had negotiated a $10 monthly pay raise for 1,200 operators and drivers employed by nine oil companies in this area.

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

You know, boys and girls, I was really proud of Mansfield's softball fans who turned out in spite of the rain Sunday to see the Mansfield All-Stars and Ferguson State Auditors do battle at Liberty park, and who turned out their pockets for the "smokes for soldiers" fund.

And I think, perhaps, the fans were proud of themselves. They had a right to be. I wouldn't have blamed any of them if they had stayed home, so misty and drizzling and threatening was the weather.

And if I hadn't promised I'd be there, I never would have gone.

Of course it wasn't much of a chore for me to get there, just a short jaunt across the fields from Coolridge golf course which I had just burned up (the term is used advisedly) in my usual fashion.

And when I got there, and felt the mist and the rain, and saw how slowly the crowd was gathering, I commiserated with Promoter Johnny Villella in this wise:

"It is too bad, John. It looks like you are stuck for a big chunk of that 35 bucks." (Which was the guarantee he was giving the Auditors.)

"That isn't what's worryin' me," says John, "we ain't got no pitcher." Neither Aid Geiger nor Bud Plank had shown up, but they arrived in time.

It seems that John knew what his big worries were. For when the mist cleared away, and the throng filled the stands and jammed along the sidelines, and the collection was taken it was found that the 35 bucks had been cleared and there was $18 left for soldiers' cigarets.

It takes a lot of drops in the bucket and coins in the hat to build up that sum, and there must have been a lot of coins bigger than nickels and dimes contributed.

Of course, Lena Aston and her coterie of coin collectors probably put on a little persuasion, but not much was needed.

* * *

Joe Lesch, bench manager of the All-Stars, was all enthused over his athletes' showing, and began considering future games for his cohorts.

Al Baki was on hand from Plum Brook ordnance plant near Sandusky, pleading for an early appearance of the Stars there. And Joe has a choice of three dates at Springfield to consider.

State Auditor Joe Ferguson was heard to remark that he would like to bring his heroes back to Mansfield again this summer since the Mansfield club was so much better than he had expected.

* * *

And John Nolan, manager of the Auditors, who made no bones about the fact that he had collected the best team in Columbus, was very happy to eke out a 2-0 victory.

SHE'D BETTER OFFER ANOTHER PRIZE, QUICK

SAN JOSE, Calif.—(AP)—The sugar rationing problem poses quite an obstacle for Mrs. Tiny Hartranft, wife of the San Jose State athletic director.

Mrs. Hartranft promised a home-baked multi-layer cake to every San Jose State trackman who set a new school track mark this season.

So far she has given out nine cakes. She may have to make a different award if the boys improve.

Hassett Has It For Yanks

Produces All New York Runs in 3-1 Victory.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

THERE probably are some people with memories long enough to remember away back to the time this spring when the New York Yankees had a first base problem.

The world champions have had a first base problem ever since Lou Gehrig stepped out of the lineup in 1939, but John Aloysius (Buddy) Hassett has provided a reasonably good solution in recent weeks.

When the Irishman replaced Ed Levy at first at the end of April he hit a homer in his first game and compiled a modest eight-game batting streak. Now he is loose on another string of five games and yesterday he provided all New York's runs in a 3-1 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

* * *

He singled two tallies across in the third and tripled in the sixth to romp home on a fly by Tom Henrich. This increased its American league lead to 3½ games as the Cleveland Indians dropped a 5-1 decision to the Chicago White Sox.

Another game for the army and navy relief was played at St. Louis and raised $8,500 from 8,496 fans as the Browns beat the Detroit Tigers 3-2.

Curt Davis pitched the Brooklyn Dodgers to their second straight shutout with a two-hit show that stopped the Philadelphia Phils 3-0.

The Boston Braves held determinedly to second place in the National league by nosing out the New York Giants 3-1 on Max West's two-run homer in the 11th inning.

The St. Louis Cardinals shelled five Chicago pitchers for 13 hits to overpower the Cubs 10-2.

In a pair of night games, Cincinnati sent Pittsburgh skidding into the second division of the National league for the first time this season and the Washington Senators downed the Philadelphia Athletics, 5 to 3.

The Reds' 6 to 1 verdict was the first of the year for big Paul Derringer.

Blues Blast 12-0 Victory

Kansas City Rules as Whitewash Kings.

(By Associated Press)

Meet the American association's whitewash king—Kansas City.

John Neun's Blues, who have won more than a third of their victories by one-point margins, opened up last night with a 12-0 blast against Indianapolis. It was the season's most unanimous defeat, surpassing the opening day ordeal the Indians went through when Columbus won 13-2.

* * *

Milwaukee posted its 23rd victory with a 4-1 verdict over Louisville in a pitcher's duel between Andy Karl and the Brewers' Roxie Lawson.

* * *

Six runs in the fifth gave Toledo a 6-5 victory over St. Paul. Spotting Minneapolis five runs in the first inning, Columbus did the giant's task of coming back for an 8-6 win.

Bob Kuzava Wins For Charleston

The league-leading Charleston Senators kept rolling along, tripping Zanesville for the second straight night, 6 to 5. Bob Kuzava was the winning pitcher but needed relief help from Don Bayless.

Erie whipped Springfield 1 to 1.

GALION ORANGEMEN SWAMP ASHLAND CLUB

GALION - Galion high school baseball nine walloped Ashland Monday afternoon with a score of 5-1 for their eleventh victory in fifteen starts.

Jim Wenninger pitched superb ball to trounce a strong Ashland club. He struck out five and issued no walks. Galion pitchers have given up exactly eight walks during the entire season.

Snyder's, Dougherty's and Arnold's hits gave the Tigers the punch, although the wildness of the Dove brothers led to their own defeat.

Frisch Waves His Wand, Elliott Clicks at Third

By DUKE MORAN
(Wide World Features Writer)

PITTSBURGH — It's Bob Elliott's third year in baseball's big show but the big blond may cop some sort of "outstanding rookie" laurels because he's the hero of one of the neatest bits of baseball alchemy in recent years.

Bob was an outfielder—and a good one—until he showed up at spring training this year. Now he's a third baseman and he's so good Pittsburgh Pirate followers think he may equal the exploits of Pie Traynor, the Bucs' immortal "hot corner" guardian.

The magic wand, which transformed Bob from an outfielder good enough to crash the all-star lineup last year into an infielder, was waved by the Pirates' manager, Onkel Franz Frisch, in a moment of desperate expediency.

Lee Handley, who was expected to handle third for the Bucs this year was injured in an auto accident during the winter and his shoulder went lame. There was nobody else so Frisch told Elliott: "You're my third baseman."

Then Frankie crossed his fingers and hoped for the best.

It happened.

Elliott fitted in at third as if he were born there. Aside from ironing out a few natural flaws, Frisch hasn't had a day's worry about the position since — but the opposition has had plenty.

* * *

They figured they would prove Bob was an infielder by mistake—but the mistake was theirs. They tried to make Bob look foolish with a few drag bunts but the big fellow fielded the dribbles like a whirling dervish and threw the runners out with a rifle-shot arm.

Now, when enemy teams bunt in Elliott's direction they figure it's only a sacrifice and dutifully utter thanks if anything better develops.

* * *

The husky lad is equally adept at knocking down smoking grounders and he knows what to do with runners on base.

In a recent St. Louis game Elliott charged halfway across the diamond to spear a slow roller and in the same gesture threw the runner out — causing that feather-footed gent to almost swoon from the shock. Other runners on the paths never moved—they never had a chance.

Elliott's bat boomed a merry tune in helping the Bucs to win several early season games. Then he slumped—but his fielding held up, so Frisch didn't worry particularly. Frankie's unusual sang froid paid dividends because Bob's batting average began to pick up flesh again and now he's respectably close to .300.

The 185-pounder who winters at El Centro, Cal., doesn't figure to be a .300 hitter but he's a timely clubber with plenty of moxie and power. He was "beaned" last year and suffered from the effects but he finished the season with a .273 average and 76 runs batted in, and he has yet to show he's gunshy.

Bob likes to wisecrack about his transformation into an infielder.

"I made seven errors the first time I tried to play third several years ago," he chuckled. "I finally cut it down to two or three a game but the work was too tough so I quit and became an outfielder. Now look at me, I'm back where I started."

Fleming Tells It To Wrong Umpire

(By Wide World)

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Umpire Red Jones and Umpire John Parks look a bit alike to Southern league baseball fans — and apparently a lot alike to slugging Les Fleming, Cleveland first-baseman who last season was slamming out hits for the Nashville Vols.

He walloped a long one in a game with Memphis, slicing the ball over left field fence.

"Honest," recalls Jones, "it was foul by this far (indicating with outstretched arms) but Fleming thought it was fair and charged around to where I was standing at third. He started pawing the ground and raising cain.

"So I tell him: 'Now, Les, you're the fellow these folks came out here to see . . . You're the big hero of the league and they want to see you hit some more. . . . They didn't pay to see me umpire, and I don't want to throw you out. . . Just go back up there to the plate . . . the ball was foul.'

* * *

"About a week later my partner and I moved into Nashville for a series. Fleming came up to me and said 'Red old boy, am I glad to see you! Man, you can umpire for my money. Do you know what that ——, ——, —— Parks did to me the other night at Memphis? He robbed me of a home run that went out of the park at least 10 feet fair. I never saw such a —— robber in all my life. It's good to get somebody around here who can see!"

Dudley Needs 70 For Record

Leads Field in P. G. A. Qualifying Round.

By LAWTON CARVER

SEAVIEW COUNTRY CLUB, ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—(INS)—Big Ed Dudley today needed a 70 to tie the qualifying record in the national professional golf championship and the rest of the field needed some good golf to catch him.

Playing under perfect conditions yesterday, the president of the P. G. A. showed his constituents what is meant by ripping apart when he played the first of two qualifying rounds in 66 and with that led the field.

Never winner of a major title beyond the stature of the western open, the long, broad-beamed pro from Colorado Springs, Colo., gave the rest something to shoot at when he went around in six under par on the first swing to leave himself in position to at least deadlock Fred Morrison of 1929 and Frank Moore of 1938, who qualified with the all-time record of 136. A 70 today was Dudley's goal.

Corp. Jim Turnesa, of Fort Dix, Sam Byrd, the ex-major league ball player, and Light Horse Harry Cooper were a stroke behind, all with 67's.

Dudley was virtually certain to qualify with the playing of today's round for the beginning of match play tomorrow when the 31 low scores and Corp. Vic Ghezzi, the defending champion and automatic qualifier, will heave at each other for 36 hole man-to-man battles lasting through next Sunday.

Willie Goggin, a dark horse from White Plains, N. Y., shot a 68, and Gene Sarazen, Byron Nelson, and Clarke Morse, another dark horse from Wellston, Mo., all had opening 69's.

Ben Hogan, with his injured left wrist in a bandage; Dutch Harrison, Jimmy Thompson, Bill Barbour, Leland Gibson and Craig Wood, the national open champion for the duration, shot 70's to stand close to the top as 29 of the field of 101 shot par or better.

Nelson remained the favorite with the professionals, with the alleged experts and with the wagerers. Despite the fact that five men were ahead of him after the first round and two others tied with him he still was virtually blacked off the board and generally was regarded as an almost certain finalist even before he has qualified.

Savold Chirps For Louis Bout

Scores Technical Kayo Over Big Lou Nova.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Lee Savold, the blond Iowan, came up today with a loud claim for a shot at boxing's richest prize—Champion Joe Louis' heavyweight crown.

Savold, who won on a technical knockout over California Lou Nova in eight rounds last night, thinks he could give Private Joe a good battle.

Savold said he would ask Promoter Mike Jacobs to arrange a bout with Louis' in Washington during the summer. The Des Moines, Ia., fighter is one of the few ranking heavyweight who hasn't come up against Louis.

Savold, weighing 188½ pounds, looked shaky at the start against the bigger, heavier Nova. But after three rounds Lee started to show his stuff.

Nova was cut on the forehead in the first round and his nose started bleeding in the second. His left eye was cut in the fourth. Ray Carlen, the Californian's manager, asked Referee Charley Reynolds to inspect the wounds after the eighth, and Reynolds promptly halted the bout.

A crowd of 15,000 fans paid around $24,000 for last night's navy relief show.

WALKER STOPPED

BALTIMORE, Md.—(INS)—Baltimore was still talking today about Lou Brooks' sensational 59 second K. O. of Jack "Buddy" Walker, Columbus, O., heavyweight, last night. The end came when Brooks sent a short, crashing right into Walker's jaw.

Eddie Mead Dies

The sudden death of Ed Mead, (above), famed boxing manager who died of a heart attack in New York City, shocks members of the boxing world. Mead gained prominence by his phenominal handling of Henry Armstrong who gained titles in three separate weight divisions.

Gullickson Leads Ohioans

33 Qualify For Cincinnati Regional Tournament.

With a sparkling six-under-par 136, Professional Lloyd Gullickson led the field in Ohio's district qualifying matches for the Hale America golf open.

Thirty-three qualified in Ohio for the regional tournament at Cincinnati June 6-7.

The Canton pro, playing his home course at Hartville yesterday, led 15 other Canton district golfers by a wide margin. Nationwide, his score was among the low for 69 reporting contests. Closest to him at Canton was Tom Bouck of Akron, with 147. Others in the district who advanced to the regional were Ed Kerby, Akron Fairlawn pro, 148, and George Howard of Canton, 150.

* * *

Reggie Myles, Columbia Hills pro, formerly of Ashland, led the way for seven qualifiers at Shaker Heights. He had a two-under par 142. Amateur Tom Whiteway from the Pine Ridge course bagged a 110-yard hole-in-one while scoring 149. Other qualifiers were John Malutic of Hawthorne Valley, 146; Ted Huge of University Heights, Bill Burke of Country club, Cleveland, and Andy Velican of Warren, all 147, and Jack Miskell of Poland, 148.

A 14-over-par 156 was good enough to qualify Bobby Campbell, 19-year-old Ohio State university freshman, at Columbia Lou Chiapetta qualified at Toledo with 147, six over par.

Qualifiers at Cincinnati were headed by James S. (Bud) Beirne of Lexington, Ky., with a two-over-par 142. Others who made the grade were Clay Gaddie, 111, Otto Hackbarth, 148; Frank Gelhot and B. J. Berning, 149; Robert Strauss and Curtis Bryant, 150; Ed Foy, 151, Len Wagner, 152; George Gratwhol, Tommy Earls, Art Smith, all 153, Jerry Burns, Hamilton, and Dewit Balch, 154; Martin Dumler, Wally Chadwell and Bob Myers, all 155; Benny Bastin, Fort Mitchell, Ky., 156; and Doug Hill and John Busemeyer, 157.

Winners in the regional will go to Chicago for the Hale America finals June 18-21.

Wooster Snaps Tyger Streak

Wooster High Generals yesterday snapped the two-season, 20-match winning streak of Mansfield high's golfing Tygers by the decisive margin of 11½ to 4½ at Wooster.

* * *

Mansfield scores were as good as the Tygers have turned in this season, they just met a bunch of golfers who were a better team, at least for a day.

* * *

Medal scores were: Mansfield, Hager 71, Collins 83, Flockenzier 79, and Oliverie 85; Wooster 71, Coccia 80, Ward 73, and Nye 88.

ED MEAD'S FUNERAL PLANNED THURSDAY

NEW YORK—(AP)—Funeral services for big Eddie Mead, colorful boxing character who died suddenly yesterday in front of his hotel, will be held Thursday. He had been in poor health for some time.

Mead, 49, managed Henry Armstrong and Joe Lynch to world's titles and made and spent two fortunes.

He is survived by his wife, the former Gloria Youngblood, Broadway singer, from whom he was separated.

Burley's Streak Ended By Ohioan

PITTSBURGH —(INS)— Charley Burley, of Pittsburgh, who had to go away to win recognition in the boxing world, had his string of 26 victories snapped last night when Ezzard Charles, Cincinnati youngster, won a unanimous decision over the 10-round route.

* * *

They billed the Charles-Burley fight as a warm-up for the Fritzie Zivic-Lew Jenkins brawl but it took the feature spot instead. The Ohio boy stepped into Burley at the openig bell and didn't stop punching for 10 rounds.

* * *

Zivic and Jenkins put on one of those pier six brawls but the Lawrenceville welterweight was in there at the final round when Commission Doctor Jenny refused to permit Jenkins to continue because of a bad eye. Lew and his handlers protested with no results.

Indians Drop Five In Row

White Sox Score Four In Ninth to Break Tie.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians, who have been performing by spurts and slumps this year, suddenly find themselves going downward when the chart calls for a rise.

They have been beaten in the last five games, including their 5 to 1 loss yesterday to the White Sox in an army-navy relief fund contest.

* * *

Their current slump started with one loss to Boston, but now the second division is turning on them. St. Louis took three straight over the week-end and yesterday's game added to the misery.

The Tribe will be out to change its luck tonight under the stadium lights.

A crowd of 7,959 who paid out $9,390.86 for the army and navy relief funds saw the Chicagoans win their ball game in the ninth inning with a four-run assault which broke a tie.

The Sox picked up their first run in the sixth, when Joe Kuhel walked, went to third on Don Kolloway's single and scored on Dario Lodigiani's fly. The Indians tied it up in the eighth after two were out. Oris Hockett doubled, went to third as Kolloway fumbled, and came home as Jeff Heath singled.

* * *

In the ninth, after Bob Kennedy had doubled, Les Fleming picked up Mike Tresh's sacrifice bunt but instead of throwing to first heeded the shriek of Mule Haas, Chicago coach, to heave toward third. The throw went wild, Kennedy scored and the damage was done. Singles by Wally Moses and Luke Appling finished Dean, and Clint Brown was greeted with singles by Kuhel and Myril Hoag, topping off the scoring drive.

RUSSIANS HALT GERMAN ATTACK

Nazis Smash Against Wall of Might In Furious Kharkov Battle.

in the Izyum-Barvenkovo sector, the Russian troops "fought defensive engagements with enemy tanks and infantry."

The Red air force was said to have undisputed superiority over the Kharkov battlefront.

Dispatches and the Russian noon communique said the Germans were sacrificing men and machines wantonly. Wave upon wave of tanks and infantrymen threw themselves against the strong Red army line, only to be beaten back, it was said.

The enemy also started feeler attacks, fierce and powerful, in other sectors, and the Russians were now on the defensive over most of a 155-mile Kharkov front.

It was the 15th day of one of the greatest and most ferocious battles of all time.

Both sides threw in men, guns and tanks by thousands, and over the smoke-clouded fields and forests Russian and German planes fought grimly for supremacy.

For the second day the Russians, instead of attacking, were seeking to hold the gains they had made against steadily increasing enemy pressure.

Dispatches asserted that the Russians were holding stoutly and were determined to break the attack.

It was estimated that in 10 days the Germans had lost 40,000 killed and up to 120,000 wounded, in addition to hundreds of tanks and planes.

But there was no sign of abatement in the ferocity with which the enemy were now attacking, and all along the front from the Sea of Azov to the Baltic, Russian commanders were on the alert for signs of a major German offensive in another zone.

A special dispatch to the army newspaper Red Star revealed that the Germans had made a new thrust on the Kalinin front, 90 miles northwest of Moscow, but that the Russians had thrown them back and, in the end, advanced to new positions.

SUPREME COURT O.K.'S PATENT

Action on Group of Improvements Called 'Appalling' by Black.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—In a 6-3 decision, the supreme court sustained yesterday the validity of a patent owned by the United Shoe Machinery Corporation of Boston in an infringement suit against the Williams Manufacturing Co. of Portsmouth, O., covering a heel-lasting machine.

A combination of improvements on the machine was patentable, said a majority decision, by Justice Roberts.

An 18-page dissent by Justice Black, with Justices Douglas and Murphy concurring, asserted the improvements did not represent a patentable invention, declaring the majority ruling's "total impact is appalling."

MOTHER LOSES

Foster Parent Awarded Custody Of 12-Year-Old Girl.

CLEVELAND —(U.P.)— Dorothy Counselman, 37, today lost a court fight for custody of her 12-year-old daughter, June Louise, whom she had given to another woman to raise 10 years ago.

Judge Samuel H. Silbert yesterday awarded custody of the child to Mrs. Lourice Marlowe, who had reared her from infancy. For two weeks, the child had spent an hour each day with her real mother in order to "get acquainted." Judge Silbert had given her an opportunity to make her own choice but finally made his own decision based on "additional evidence."

CLEVELAND—(INS—Leaders of a wildcat street-car strike which tied up 11 of 12 west side lines of the city transit system yesterday face disciplinary action by the Transit Employes' union and possible prosecution by the city for abandoning municipal property, Mayor Frank J. Lausche said today.

The strike, termed "wholly unauthorized" by James Barnes, president of the AFL-Amalgamated Association of Street Electric Railway and Motor coach Employes, was instigated by a few disgruntled employes.

Mother Of Soldier Who Fought On Bataan Succumbs

LUCAS — Mrs. Anna Charles, 49, wife of Earl L. Charles, and mother of an American soldier who fought on Bataan, died this morning at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Matuck, in Lucas.

Born in Mansfield, Mrs. Charles had been a life-long resident of this vicinity.

In addition to her husband and her parents, she is survived by her son, Earl L., with the American army in the Philippines (no word as to his fate has been received by the family); two daughters, Mrs. William Clark, Berea, and Mrs. T. D. Hudson, R. D. 3, Mansfield; six brothers, Jack and Wilford Matuck of Mansfield; George and Ed of Lucas; Martin, jr., of Lexington, and Gene, who is with the army and stationed in Columbus; four sisters, Mrs. Edward Haggins and Mrs. Jud Huffman of Mansfield, and Mrs. Earl Van Scoyoc and Mrs. J. Barrett Picking, Lucas. One granddaughter also survives.

The body was taken to the Wappner funeral home in Mansfield. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

I—VITAL STATISTICS

1—Death Notices

BAER

Mrs. Della Pollock, 78, wife of Henry Baer, died Monday evening at the home of her son, Lee Baer, 47 Wood St., after an illness of several weeks. The body was removed to the Wappner Funeral Home where friends may call. Services will be conducted Thursday afternoon, 1:30 o'clock, in charge of Rev. Jack Davis of Ashland, Ohio. Burial will be made in St. Peter's cemetery in Washington township. (Wappner Funeral Directors.) (L-k)

2—Card of Thanks

WE WISH to thank our many friends and relatives for the kind words of sympathy expressed to us in the loss of our dearly beloved wife, mother and grandmother, Mrs. Julia Ann Bauer. We especially wish to thank the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company, the Geiger Funeral Home, Rev. Fr. Gillig, Sister of Saint Francis, DKUV lodge, and those who furnished cars and sent flowers or assisted in any way.—Mrs. Wm. J. Walker, Fred and Michael Bauer, Landford Pugh, and Grandchildren. (L-k)

I WISH sincerely to thank friends, relatives, neighbors and the Fritz Cafe for their kind expressions of sympathy and for the beautiful floral offerings received during the loss of my husband, Adam (Woody) Lehman. Especially do I wish to thank Rev. H. L. Gilbert for his consoling words and the Geiger Funeral Home for their courteous assistance. Mrs. Emma Lehman. (L-k)

WITH REGARD TO A CARD OF THANKS

Very often a Card of Thanks in The News-Journal meets a need which can hardly be solved in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have sent floral tributes, but also courteously acknowledges the service and kindness of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed, or whose names or addresses are not known.

A "Card of Thanks" can now be arranged by telephone: Dial 4251-6, ask for Miss Lane or Miss Stone, either will be glad to render whatever service and advice you need.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—Danger Is Their Business. By Harold Gray

LEAPIN' LIZARDS! THIS WAS A FOOL THING TO DO--TO FOLLOW THAT KILLER ---DOWN TO THIS LONELY COVE--JUST US, ALONE-
OH, I DUNNO- I'M PRETTY FAIR WITH A BOAT, IF I DO SAY SO- OUTMANEUVER HIM EASY ENOUGH-
5-26-42
MAYBE SO, PANDA- BUT WE KNOW HE'S A MURDERER--AND HE WAS LOOKIN' FOR ME--- AND HE'S GOT A GUN!
YEAH? WHAT DO YOU THINK THIS IS? A KID'S PEASHOOTER?
OH!
NOW TAKE IT EASY, ANNIE--NO USE TANGLING WITH HIM IN THE DARK AND TAKING CHANCES-- JUST WAN'T TO SEE WHERE HE LIGHTS---
HAROLD GRAY
THEN, WE CAN GO BACK AND TIP OFF TH' COPS SO THEY CAN GRAB HIM--
WAIT-- LOOK-- LITTLE LIGHT--GONE- THERE IT IS AGAIN- OUT THERE ON THAT HALF-SUNKEN SCOW- THAT'S NOT ELDEEN-

PAM—"Valuable Secret Information." By A. W. Brewerton

WONDER WHO HE WAS? WHAT SHOULD I DO?
IT HAD HAPPENED SO QUICKLY! THE MAN HAD VANISHED INTO THE CROWD.' ALL PAM HAD SEEN OF HIM WAS HIS REFLECTION IN THE PLATE-GLASS WINDOW!
WHY DID HE GIVE ME THE ENVELOPE?
SHE MOVED ON. NO ONE IN THE THRONG SEEMED TO PAY HER ANY ATTENTION. STEPPING INTO A CONVENIENT--
5-26
DOORWAY, SHE DREW OUT THE ENVELOPE!
"THIS CONTAINS VALUABLE SECRET INFORMATION. I AM IN DANGER OF HAVING IT TAKEN FROM ME. KEEP IT CAREFULLY AND SPEAK OF IT TO NO ONE-- WATCH FOR PERSONAL AD IN THE DAILY TOPIC. YOU WILL BE REWARDED"
"VALUABLE SECRET INFORMATION!" OH, DEAR! MAYBE THEY'LL TRY TO TAKE IT FROM ME!

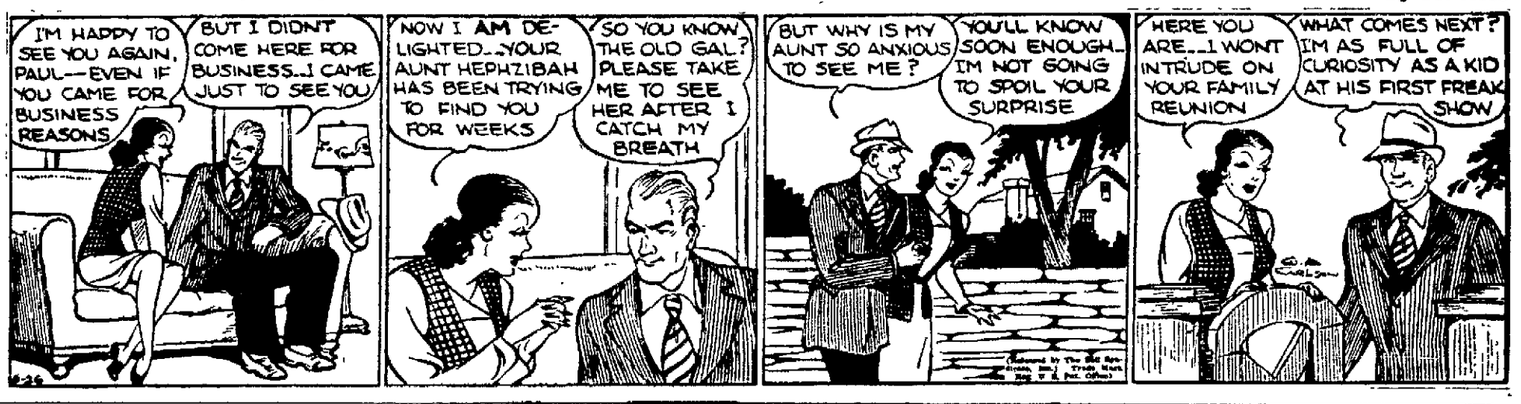
THE NEBBS—Welcome, Stranger. By Sol Hess



I'M HAPPY TO SEE YOU AGAIN, PAUL--EVEN IF YOU CAME FOR BUSINESS REASONS
BUT I DIDN'T COME HERE FOR BUSINESS..I CAME JUST TO SEE YOU
5-26
NOW I AM DE-LIGHTED..YOUR AUNT HEPHZIBAH HAS BEEN TRYING TO FIND YOU FOR WEEKS
SO YOU KNOW THE OLD GAL? PLEASE TAKE ME TO SEE HER AFTER I CATCH MY BREATH
BUT WHY IS MY AUNT SO ANXIOUS TO SEE ME?
YOU'LL KNOW SOON ENOUGH.. I'M NOT GOING TO SPOIL YOUR SURPRISE
HERE YOU ARE...I WON'T INTRUDE ON YOUR FAMILY REUNION
WHAT COMES NEXT? I'M AS FULL OF CURIOSITY AS A KID AT HIS FIRST FREAK SHOW

BRICK BRADFORD—On the Throne of Titania. By William Ritt and Clarence Gray

STOCK LEADERS ADVANCE; SOME LAGGARDS NOTED

Douglas Aircraft, American Can Tack Up Gains; Oil Holders Cheered.

NEW YORK — Selected stocks displayed advancing tendencies in today's market proceedings although there still were plenty of laggards.

Douglas Aircraft was up more than a point and fractional gains were tacked on United Aircraft, Union Carbide, American Can, Chrysler and International Nickel. Bethlehem was unchanged and U. S. Steel off a shade.

Holders of oils found some satisfaction in reports of record pipeline deliveries of crude petroleum to eastern centers in recent weeks.

Noted was the federal reserve compilation disclosing member bank loans to commerce, ndustry and agriculture in the week ended May 20 dropped $56,000,000, thus resuming the lengthy decline which was interrupted in the preceding week.

KECK TO HEAD SHELBY AD CLUB

Superintendent of Schools Elected at Meeting.

SHELBY—Supt. C. G. Keck of the Shelby schools was elected as president of the Shelby Ad club Monday night at the regular dinner meeting at the Shelby Country club.

Other officers elected were Clarence Strou, vice president; Donald Hildebrant, secretary, and Dudley Seltzer, treasurer.

Moving pictures were shown on the program arranged by Wade Bricker. The movies included the bombing of Manila and the Russian war.

GETS $50 FINE

Man Who Broke Into Home Enters Plea of Guilty Today.

Charles Thomas Finran, 347 West Third street, arrested last week on a breaking and entering charge after he had allegedly smashed through the door of a Vale avenue home, pleaded guilty when arraigned in municipal court this morning and was fined $50 and costs.

Finran was arrested last Wednesday upon the complaint of H. J. Jamison, 131 Vale avenue, who charged him with breaking open the door of the Jamison home and "terrifying" two young women living there.

Police who arrested Finran on the street shortly after the incident said that he was under the influence of alcohol.

Acting Judge H. H. Schettler suspended $5 of Finran's fine, pending his payment of $5 for the damages to the door in the Jamison home.

U. S. Lets City Buy One Of Two Trucks It Sought

The federal government relaxed priority regulations a trifle today to give city officials permission to purchase one of the two garbage trucks sought by the city's garbage department for the past two months.

Service-Safety Director Fred B. Wolff said today he had received a telegram from War Production board officials granting permission to purchase one truck.

Lester L. Linham, city garbage superintendent, said that delivery should be made almost immediately as the trucks were in dealers' stock in Mansfield.

Doubtful that the garbage department would be able to get another new truck for the duration Linham said he would have the two old trucks repaired instead of trading them in.

"They won't be the best in the world," said Linham, "but with things the way they are, we'll just have to get along the best we can."

MANSFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

Hospital Staff Meets—The active staff of Mansfield General hospital will hold a clinical meeting at 8:30 p. m., tomorrow, it was announced by Dr. L. D. Bonar, president.

Faces Charge — Returned to Mansfield yesterday from Medina by County Sheriff G. C. Humphrey, Otto R. Swartz, 35, was held in the county jail today on a charge of failing to provide for his family in Mansfield.

Bitten by Dog—O. H. Burggraf, 469 Tracy street, reported to police yesterday that his son had been bitten on the right leg by a dog on Tracy street. Police ordered Ross Sciarrotti, 394 McPherson street, owner of the dog, to tie it for ten days.

Has Heart Attack—Sam Robertson, 63, Cleveland, suffered a heart attack yesterday while walking on North Diamond street near Central park. Robertson asked employes of the Richland Electric company to call an ambulance, which took him to General hospital. Robertson told police he was enroute from Cleveland to Dayton to go to work. Hospital attendants reported his condition as "poor" today.

Plan Memorial Program—Members of the Mansfield Co-Operative club will hold patriotic-memorial services at their weekly meeting today at 6:30 p. m. in the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Reports will be made on the progress of the sale of tickets for the Marguerite Speas revue to be sponsored by the club to raise funds for men in the services.

Liquor Fine Levied — Willie Glenn, colored, 97 East Sixth street, was fined $50 and costs in municipal court this morning after pleading guilty to a charge of possessing an opened bottle of liquor in a public place not licensed for the sale of liquor. Glenn was arrested at 97 East Sixth street by city police on Sunday.

THEATERS

Singing Role.

Kathryn Grayson gets her first big chance as a singing star in "Rio Rita," the Abbott and Costello comedy with music at the Ohio. She appears as the proprietress of a resort hotel in southern Texas who finds her life complicated by Nazi spies and two unusual guests in the persons of Abbott and Costello. The latter reach the hotel through the stowaway route from New York in John Carroll's car. Miss Grayson sings several numbers with Carroll and the entertainment is augmented by the Brazilian dances of Eros Volusia.

Dream City.

Acres of California's famed Sherwood Forest were transformed into a jungle like that described by Rudyard Kipling in "Jungle Book," for Alexander Korda's picture by the same name showing at the Madison. An East Indian dream city with white temples and minarets was erected to edge the jungle that contained almost every form of wild beast. Filmed in technicolor the picture has Sabu in the leading role of a boy raised by jungle animals and a cast headed by Joseph Calleia and John Qualen. Lew Ayres in "Fingers At the Window," is the co-attraction.

Career Theme.

The problem of the career woman is given new treatment in Katharine Hepburn's picture, "Woman of the Year," co-starring Spencer Tracy at the Ritz. The career woman in this case is a columnist dealing with international affairs which have nothing to do with her sports writer-husband's reviews of the baseball world. Fay Bainter and Reginald Owen are in the cast. Gene Autry's picture, "Home In Wyomin'," is the second picture.

Theater Duplicated.

The interior of Warsaw's leading theater was duplicated for the Carole Lombard-Jack Benny picture, "To Be or Not To Be," at the Park. Action of the picture is laid in the theater where the two stars appear at the head of a "ham" theatrical troupe performing Shakespeare until the Nazi invasion. Robert Stack, Lionel Atwill and Sig Ruman are among the players who stage the game of hide and seek between the actors and the enemy. "Sing Your Worries Away," with Bert Lahr is the co-feature.

HOME NURSING HEADS CONFER

Representatives of Richland, 7 Other Counties, Discuss Program Here Today.

Seventy home nursing representatives from Richland and seven other counties were present today at a conference conducted by National Red Cross officials for discussion of the organization's home nursing program.

Speakers at the meeting, held in the Mansfield-Leland hotel, were Miss Bernice Cain and Miss Bess Linsey, field representatives from the Red Cross eastern headquarters at Alexandria, Va.

Principal discussion was on the revised home nursing syllabus, which has been brought up to date to meet the needs of the present emergency. Miss Cain also explained the operation of the new Home Nursing Workshop located at the W. K. Kellogg Clear Lake camp, Dowling, Mich.

Mrs. J. B. Simons, home nursing chairman of the Richland Red Cross chapter, presided at the sessions. L. W. Birch, chapter chairman, was another speaker.

Those present for the conference, which was to close at 3:30 this afternoon, included home nursing instructors, potential instructors, and committee representatives from the following counties:

Richland, Seneca, Crawford, Morrow, Wyandot, Marion, Ashland, and Wayne.
